NAVAL BUILDING AND TAX REPEAL UP TO CONGRESS

Roosevelt Prepares Two Messages.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A two billion dollar national defense program, repeal of soak-the-rich taxes, the balancing of the budget, panaceas for the new depression, and further experiments in collectivist government are among the outstanding questions with which the 75th congress will be called upon to deal in its regular session beginning Jan. 3.

President Roosevelt will complete this week two messages to congress which will have an important, if not a vital, bearing upon the action congress eventually takes upon these matters. One message is that in which the President makes the annual report on the "state of the Union," prescribed by the constitution. The other is the message in which the President will submit his budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939.

Expect Arresting Document.

Information seeping from the inner White House circle is to the effect that the message on the state of the Union will be an arresting document. It is intended to refute, 'tis said, any notions that the President's consent to modification of the undivided profits and capital gains taxes, his defeat by his own party in the senate in his undertaking to pack the Supreme court, his defeat by his own party in the house in his project for political regulation of wages and hours of labor and his negotiations for peace with the power companies represent in any sense a retreat from Moscow by the Democratic party.

Also the message is intended to absolve the President of any responsibility for the business recession, which is being variously dubbed the new depression and the Roosevelt depression.

While business leaders contend that investment in private enterprise has been chilled by the uncertainty of profit making under a régime of antagonism to the capitalist system the President presents an alibi which attributes the business recession to fear incited by certain corporations and by the newspapers.

So important does the President consider the pronouncement he is to make in this message that he intends to deliver it in person before a joint session of the two houses of congress.

Fleet Additions Planned.

At the moment greatest interest attaches to the scope of the rearmament program which the President will present. Mr. Roosevelt has under consideration a program for not only the replacement of all obsolescent warships in the next few years, but a large addition to the strength of our fleet of fighting ships. Under this plan proposed by the navy the number of battleships would be increased from the present 15 to 20 and a corresponding increase would be made in aircraft carriers and cruisers and other auxiliary craft.

This navy enlargement program would call for a construction expenditure of one billion dollars in addition to the one billion dollars of annual expenditure on the army and navy combined. This would be exclusive of the replacement program under which two battleships are now being built to replace the two oldest of the present fleet of 15. The 1939 budget will call for an appropriation of 130 million dollars for the replacement of two more of the battleship fleet and for similar replacements of cruisers, destroyers, and submarines.

Undecided About Scope.

The President indicated recently that he had not yet decided definitly on the scope of the navy enlargement program he will recommend or at least was not ready to disclose it. He begged to be excused at his press conference from answering any questions about it.

Numerous considerations move the administration to embark upon a large navy program. One is that the naval powers have been engaged in a navy building race since the termination of the navy limitation treaties. Great Britain is building 86 warships aggregating half a million tons, including five battleships and five aircraft carriers. She is about to lay down several hundred thousand tons more. The United States is building

CUT BANJO AWAY FROM STATUE OF STEPHEN FOSTER

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Some vandal has cut away the bronze banjo that Uncle Ned held so long on the statue to Stephen Collins Foster in Highland park.

The monument portrays Foster, famous American folk song composer, standing, while at his feet sits Uncle Ned, one of the most celebrated of his musical characters. The Civic club fine arts committee has announced a public campaign to raise funds to provide $395 for a sculptor to make a new model of the banjo, and $2,500 to move the statue to another and more centrally located park.

TERUEL BATTLE HORRORS BARED BY SURVIVORS

Claim Firing Squads Took Many Lives.

BY HENRY BUCKLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TERUEL, Spain, Dec. 25.—[Delayed.]—This dawn of Christmas day finds the forces of the Spanish government pressing hard for the capture of the last strongholds in Teruel held by the rebel army—the Bank of Spain, the massive stone prison and the catnedral.

Gen. José Millan Astray.

Cautiously the units of the loyal brigades are moving through the streets. With them they have artillery, but they are using it little. To blast down the buildings with high caliber shells would mean death to hundreds of loyalists held as hostages by Franco's men. For humanitarian reasons the commanders in charge prefer to have the capture made by men armed only with rifles, grenades and anti-tank guns.

[A Spanish government communique last night declared two centers of rebel resistance in Teruel were in flames and a third citadel captured. The civil guard barracks were taken by storm early in the evening. Inside the seminary and the Bank of Spain buildings, which were reported in flames, were said to be large numbers of Italian officers, some German officers and rebel commanders.]

Estimate 2,000 Executed.

This consideration for the hostages is well deserved. It has been estimated that the rebels, before they evacuated the unfortified parts of this city of 12,000, stood at least 2,000 inhabitants suspected of government sympathies before firing squads and shot them. Some believe the number will reach 3,000.

In the dense fog that spread over this hilltown of eastern Spain on Christmas eve I followed the loyal troops through the business section. Wraith like in the mists, citizens walked slowly, seeking to identify the dead in the streets. They took no account of the occasional bullets that whined overhead from the guns of the besieged remnant of rebels.

Their stories were of a monotonous similarity.

"I am looking," said Adrian Fauri Dolz, a city councilman, "for three colleagues. Like myself, they were members of the leftist wing of the council. They have ben shot, I am told. The same fate would have come to me if I had not heard we were to be executed. I fled and fortunately reached the government lines."

Lost Husband, Two Sons.

In an alley I came upon an old woman, bent and hopeless. "Señor," she said, "my husband is dead. My two sons are dead. The rebels shot them because they were for the government. I am poor; I would have starved if soldiers kindlier than the rest had not given me a daily allowance of bread and sardines."

Another of the searchers told me that no considerations of mercy had touched the departing rebels. He was looking for the body of Mariana Garces, an 18 year old beauty, who was shot down because she belonged to a Socialist Youth group.

It was reported that among those in the beleagured rebel buildings were José Millan Astray, famed Moroccan campaigner and founder of the Spanish Foreign legion, and the bishop and nearly all the priests of the city's seventeen churches.

Owner of 1,000 Hams.

All, however, was not gloom. In one street I found the shop of Tomas Gomez with a stock of 1,000 hams. Ten policemen mounted guard over it, to prevent looting.

"My bakery is working now for the government troops," said Gomez. "This turn of the tide has not been

THE EMPTY STOCKING

Anyhow, This Proves London Is Still There!

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Citizens of London poked wary heads out of doors today and heard strange tales of the worst Christmas fog since 1904.

A Soccer Tragedy!

Probably the most nettled victim of all was Goalkeeper Bartram of the Charlton soccer team, who stuck doggedly to his post not knowing the game had been called off until long after the other players hed left the field.

A searching party finally found him.

The fog made a crazy patchwork over the celebrating city but sooner or later every section was blanketed.

Channel Boat Lost.

Rail and motor transportation was disrupted. There was at least one known death in scores of trafic accidents.

The fog continued thick over the English channel today and an Imperial Airways flying boat was forced down at Havre roads. Two hundred seventy-one passengers on the cross channel steamer Canterbury spent seven unhappy hours of their Christmas while the boat tried to find Calais.

FIEDLER FAVORS OPERATION UPON NATION'S ANTHEM

Boston, Mass., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops and Esplanade concerts, today proposed a "musical operation" on "The Star Spangled Banner" to make it less difficult for the average person to sing. The national anthem was criticized last week by Nino Martini, operatic tenor, as too difficult.

"The anthem runs through twelve notes from B flat to F," said Fiedler. "If it could be re-arranged to run from D to F, cutting off the two lower notes, the range would suit the average singer.

"However, I feel that 'The Star Spangled Banner' is heroic as it stands and is a real vocal challenge."

'HANGOVER SERVICE' FOR REVELERS, PLAN FOR NEW YEAR'S EVE

Boston, Mass., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A special New Year's eve "hangover service" was announced today by the Boston and Maine railroad in an apparent plan to greet 1938 with the spirit of brotherly love. The railway will run a fleet of "safe whoopee trains" for the convenience of revelers starting at 2 a. m. New Year's morning for twenty-five destinations in New Hampshire and Massachusetts. Thereby men with rumpled paper hats and little horns may be sure of avoiding arrest for drunken driving.

"Don't spend New Year's day in the hoosegow" reads an announcement signed by J. W. Rimmer, vice president in charge of trafic, handed today to all commuters."

Policemen Michael Richards and Harry Calfee of the Sheffield avenue station recorded on the police blotter last night that Miss Naomi Curtis, 1655 Wrightwood avenue, went to the store to buy a bottle of milk.

Miss Curtis is 16 years old and attractive. She knows how to take care of herself. She went to the store and bought the milk. It was a full quart, and as quarts of milk always do, it weighed about two pounds.

Miss Curtis started home. After a bit she noticed a man following her. She quickened her pace to a near run. So did he. At an alley at 2558 North Ashland avenue he caught up with her.

Miss Curtis turned and faced him. He tried to seize her. Miss Curtis poked him on the jaw with her fist, and knocked him down. However, he came up and lunged at her.

Then Miss Curtis went into action with the milk bottle. She cracked her annoyer twice on the head and the stranger voluntarily and hastily departed, holding his head. Miss Curtis told Policemen Richards and Calfee, who completed their report, as follows:

Yule Week Alcoholic Cases in New York Show Decline

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Only 102 alcoholic cases were admitted to Bellevue hospital over the Christmas week-end this year compared to double that number last year, hospital officials announced tonight.

Mouse Digs Up $1,000 a Year in Radio Field

Minnie, the singing mouse of Woodstock, who now has thirteen children and seven grandchildren, will observe the first anniversary of her initial radio performance tomorrow. Herbert O. Gensch, superintendent of the Chicago Industrial Home for Children at Woodstock and discoverer of the crooning rodent, said yesterday that Minnie's year has been fairly successful.

Minnie earned $500 for her first lullaby, sung over a national radio network, and during the year added another $500 to her income for other appearances, he said. The earnings are turned over to the home by the Woodstock Civic club, owners of the mouse. The club purchased Minnie in order that the industrial home's wish to keep its name in the background could be fulfilled.

More Appearances Planned.

Mr. Gensch said more radio, theater, and chautauqua appearances are being planned for Minnie, who, he asserted, has reached a fuller development since her first litter and now sings four times as much as formerly.

A son from the first litter, born early in September, is the only offspring so far showing ability as a singer, Mr. Gensch said. The second litter arrived only about a week ago, however, and may yet develop operatic talent.

Watches Progress of Mice.

Dwight Lechty, manager and keeper of the mouse, will watch the progress of her offspring for several months before disposing of them. A pair will be offered to the Chicago Zoölogical park in Brookfield for further experimentation, it was said.

Minnie was caught in the basement of the industrial home in December, 1936. Mr. Gensch was about to destroy her when he discovered her singing qualities.

Find Three Watermelons to Aid Stricken Boy

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The state police brought three watermelons from southern New Jersey to this city today to be used in the treatment of E. Jenner Day, who is suffering from a kidney ailment. The melons were obtained from farmers, who had buried them in fields to prevent freezing.

East Orange, N. J., Dec. 26.—[Special.] — Carmen A. Battaglia announced today that he had invented a machine to take the shiny places off the seats of trousers.

Heiress Faces Quiz Today on Mother's Death

Youngstown, O., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Louise Campbell, who is known as a crack shot with a pistol, is in jail tonight awaiting the outcome of a coroner's inquest into the death of her mother, Mrs. Cordelia Campbell. Mrs. Campbell died today in a hospital here of a bullet wound suffered Christmas eve at the Campbell country home where the family was assembled to decorate a tree.

Miss Campbell, who is 28 years old, is a granddaughter of the late James A. Campbell, one of the founders of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and its president and chairman of the board for more than 25 years.

Not Satisfied with Stories.

Both Paul J. Regan, prosecutor of Trumbull county, in which the once palatial Campbell estate was located, and Joseph A. Laurde, county detective, who investigated the case, declare that they are not satisfied with information obtained at the Campbell home.

The version of the story told to them is that Mrs. Campbell, 55 years old, her daughters, Louise and Mrs. Uretta Bronch of London, England, their aunt, Countess Marie Ravelli and her husband, Count Gederigo E. Ravelli, drank a number of cocktails as the Christmas tree was being trimmed.

Louise Campbell eventually donned her fur coat and announced she was going to take her car and go for a ride. She was unable to start her car because the ignition switch keys had been removed. Then she obtained a pistol that she carried in the door pocket of her car and returned to the house.

Shoots at Christmas Tree.

"Who took my keys?" she demanded. The others told her she was not in fit condition to drive. Miss Campbell raised her pistol, pointed to a light on the blazing Christmas tree and cried: "Look!" The bullet she fired missed the light and embedded in the wall.

Mrs. Campbell remonstrated with her daughter and tried to take the pistol from her hand. As they struggled in friendly fashion for the automatic, another shot was fired and Mrs. Campbell fell to the floor, wounded fatally.

A physician was called and Mrs. Campbell was taken to a hospital in Youngstown. Her daughters accompanied her, and Louise Campbell gave 400 cubic centimeters of blood in a transfusion, but this failed to save her mother.

Taken to County Jail.

Miss Campbell then was taken to the Trumbull county jail in Warren, 20 miles away. Today she ate with women prisoners, but was weak from loss of blood. Regan said if it was necessary to take her to a hospital she would be placed under guard until after Dr. J. C. Henshaw, coroner, has completed the inquest.

Miss Campbell's grandfather died in 1933 a short time after the memorable industrial battle in which Bethlehem Steel corporation sought to absorb Sheet and Tube. The elder Campbell favored the merger against an aroused public sentiment that wanted the company to remain inde-

JAPAN TIGHTENS GRIP ON SIXTH CHINA PROVINCE

Armies Battle South of Yellow River.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 27 [Monday.]—By crossing the Yellow river 15,000 strong and blockading the chief port, Tsingtao, the Japanese early today had materially tightened their iron band around Shantung province in North China.

Reports reaching Shanghai from Hankow, one of three temporary Chinese capitals in the interior, said the Japanese had taken Tsinan, capital of Shantung. Tsinan's communications with Tsingtao were broken.

[Previously during the Chinese-Japanese conflict the Japanese had taken Peiping and Nanking, the old and new capitals of China; Tientsin and Shanghai, great business and industrial centers, and the provincial capitals of Hopei, Chahar, Suiyuan, Shansi, Kiangsu, and Chekiang.]

Warships Bottle Up Port.

The troops which crossed the Yellow river were reported pressing southward into the heart of Shantung. Chinese reports said that big Japanese guns bombarded Tsinan and set fires in the city, but declared that Chinese guns were replying.

Seven Japanese warships appeared off the port of Tsingtao to enforce the blockade declared by the Japanese navy yesterday. Hitherto Tsingtao had been exempted from the general blockade of China's coast. The drive into Shantung and the blockade of Tsingtao were regarded as part of the "drastic punitive action" announced by Tientsin military headquarters on Friday. This was in retaliation for the Chinese troops burning of 100 million dollars worth of Japanese cotton spinning mills in Tsingtao a week ago.

Drive Against Red Army.

Farther west of Shantung, Japanese operations were being pushed in Shansi province with the object of breaking the strength of the Eighth Route army, which is composed of former Chinese communist troops. The Shansi troops are commanded by Gen. Chu Teh, who is long experienced in guerrilla tactics. He was the foe of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, "strong man" of China, in the civil war.

All Chinese factions are uniting against Japan. The Chinese Eighth army began a guerrilla war against the Japanese at the outbreak of the present hostilities. It maintains communications with soviet Russia through Outer Mongolia and receives soviet help. The Japanese determination to wipe out the Chinese Red force has been intensified as the result of numerous engagements in which Japanese communications and supplies were disrupted.

New Red Envoy Arrives.

The soviet link with the western territory is being strengthened. The new soviet ambassador, I. Luganets-Orelsky, arrived by plane at Hankow yesterday. He was formerly the consul general at Urumutsi, Sinkiang province. Hence, he is familiar with the politics and transportation in the western area.

The Japanese emphasize their ability to occupy and dominate the coastal regions of China. However, they declare they do not intend to permit the "evicted Chinese government" to form a permanent soviet link.

In Chekiang province, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, the Japanese have advanced twenty miles beyond Hangchow, the provincial capital which was captured Christmas day. The absence of Chinese resistance prevented much damage being done to the beautiful city. The Chinese troops dynamited and destroyed the electric power and water plants before they retreated from Hangchow. All foreign properties were undamaged.

wa, the birthplace o. Gen. Chiang. Another moved toward Ningpo, a city of 450,000 and chief seaport of Chekiang. The Japanese already have captured the towns of Fuyong and Yuhang. The populous area produces tea, cotton and tobacco.

In Shanghai the devasted Hongkew and Yangtzepoo areas north of Soochow creek, which until now have been occupied only by Japanese soldiers, were opened today for foreign residence and business. Foreigners will be permitted to cross Garden bridge without passes. Chinese servants will be permitted to enter, but there will be such rigid control of Chinese passes that few foreigners are likely to return to their former homes and places of business.

Mail and telegraph deliveries in those areas are still forbidden. Chinese chauffeurs are barred and there are strict curfew and lighting regulations, so life for foreigns in those areas would have many difficulties.

See Treaty Rights Endangered.

Japanese authorities announced that regulations fixed for these areas would apply to Japanese occupied sections of China. Diplomats said this apparently raised the vital question of the treaty rights of other foreign powers.

An embassy spokesman said the rules, applying to persons entering or residing in such territory, were "applicable to all persons, including the nationals of third powers."

The strict regulations provided, among other things, a death penalty for commission of acts against Japan's armed forces. The spokesman admitted enforcement of the measures would make Americans and other foreigners subject to Japanese military law.

He said foreign embassies had not been informed of the regulations which partially would withold extra-territorial rights and privileges of other nations based on present treaties with China. Under current treaty rights foreigners, except Russians and Germans, are subject only to the laws of their own nations.

Because China no longer holds such territory the spokesman said that acts against Japan's armed forces would be questions for settlement only between Japan and any third government involved.

Dictator Voices Confidence.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 27.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Despite the rapid extension of Japanese conquests, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, "strong man" of China, today declared anew his confidence in ultimate Chinese victory.

At his headquarters at an undisclosed place in the middle Yangtze valley the Chinese leader told an Associated Press correspondent:

"Tell America to have complete confidence in us. The tide of battle is turning and victory eventually will be ours."

Gen. Chiang, who spent Christmas conferring with his military lieutenants, was smiling and buoyant. His chief aid, Mme. Chiang, was not present, being confined to bed by influenza.

Expect New Russian Support.

Diplomatic quarters were keenly interested in reports of imminent changes designed to foster closer Chinese-Russian relations, perhaps to increase the extent of Russian support of China.

Moscow dispatches said Tsiang Ting-fu, China's ambassador, had left for home Dec. 23 and was not expected to return. Shanghai diplomats heard he might be replaced either by Mme. Sun Yat-sen, the widow, or Dr. Sun Fo, the son of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, "father of the Chinese republic."

Authoritative Chinese confirmation was not available here, since the highest government officials were in Hankow or Chungking.

Sun Yat-sen, before his death in 1925, relied heavily on soviet aid in his fight to extend the sway of his Nationalist party over all China.

Sun Fo, chairman of China's legislative council, left Hankow last week for Hongkong, en route to European capitals, including Moscow, on what was said to be a general good will mission.

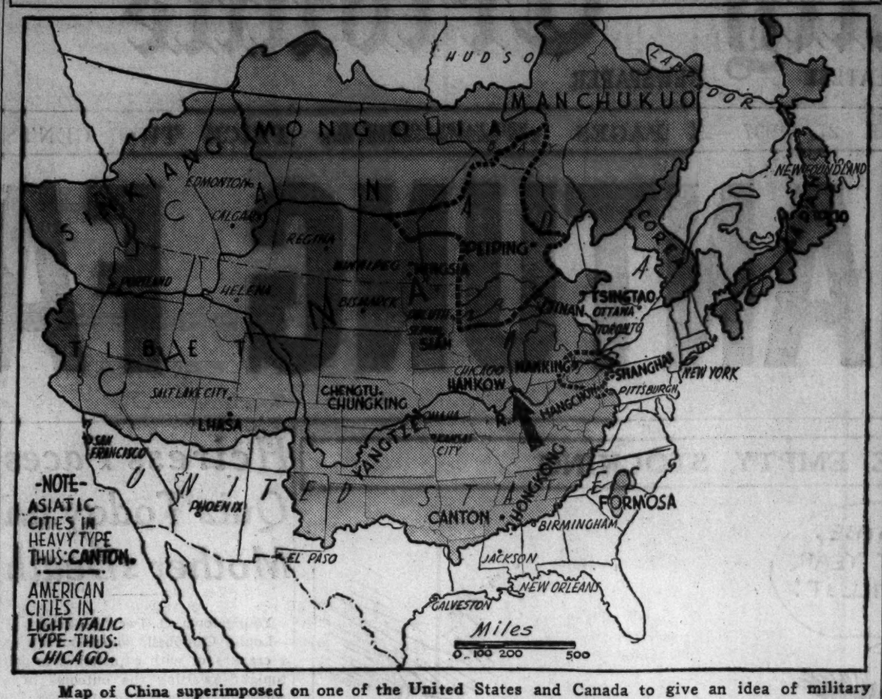
Casualties More than 1,000,000.

China's casualties in her conflict with Japan were estimated to have passed the 1,000,000 mark. The toll was considered certain to go much higher, with Japanese armies driving into Shantung and Chekiang provinces and an offensive against Canton, the metropolis of the south, believed to be imminent.

Civilians killed or wounded in the almost daily bombardment of Chinese cities by Japan's air forces accounted for a large proportion of the total.

A month ago Col. C. E. De Watteville, Swiss official of the International Red Cross now in China, estimated Chinese casualties, military and civilian, at 800,000. Since then the fighting at Nanking, Hangchow, Soochow, and other cities was estimated to have killed or wounded another 200,000 Chinese.

Comparison of Extent of Jap Operations in China



Map of China superimposed on one of the United States and Canada to give an idea of military operations in China. Hankow, China (indicated by arrow), is the distributive center for central China. It is known as the "Chicago of China" and is placed in the same position as Chicago. The latter actually is farther north, being at latitude 41 degrees 53 minutes north, while Hankow is 30 degrees 32 minutes north. Japan's inroads in China within the present decade began in Manchuria (Manchukuo) in 1931. They were extended to Jehol and Chahar provinces, and within the last six months to the five provinces of North China and the Shanghai-Nanking area. Dotted lines outline areas that have been taken by Japan in present campaign. Canton and Hankow are believed to be future objectives. China, Japan, Corea, and other Asiatic countries are represented on the map by shaded areas.

Take 650,000 Sq. Mi.

The current Japanese drives in Shantung province and in the Hangchow area of China extended to nearly 150,000 square miles the territory that the Nipponese have occupied in the last year. Since they launched their campaign in Manchuria in 1931, they have occupied nearly 650,000 square miles of China's 4,481,000 square miles.

The flight of refugees from Hankow and Canton to the British crown colony of Hongkong indicates the fear of the Chinese that those two great industrial cities are the next objectives of the Japanese.

Hankow is about 600 miles up the Yangtze river, it is the great distributive center of the interior and is frequently called the "Chicago of China." Harley Farnsworth MacNair, professor of far eastern history and institutions at the University of Chicago, explained it was given the nickname "Chicago of China" at least 25 years ago.

Crisis Settled, Foreign Chief Declares.

Hirota's statement was made to Ambassador Joseph C. Grew when the latter handed him Secretary of State Cordell Hull's note accepting in the main Japan's amends for the destruction of the Panay and three American merchant vessels on the Yangtze river on Dec. 12.

Public Not Informed.

High officials gave evidence of relief over the tenor of the note and a general conviction the crisis was over. But the Japanese public remained ignorant of the real seriousness of the apparently terminated crisis and of the lengths to which the government had gone to satisfy the United States.

Nearly all the higher officials of the foreign office were in Hirota's office when Ambassador Grew presented the note at noon and it was noted most of the group were wreathed in smiles.

The foreign office spokesman said the ambassador called Hirota's particular attention to the last paragraph of the note, expressing hope that measures taken by Japan to prevent further attacks on "American nationals, interests or property in China" would prove effective.

Emperor Optimistic.

Official Japan's determination to take a rosy view of the empire's relations with other powers, including the United States, found expression in Emperor Hirohito's address from the throne at the ceremonial opening of the new session of the diet [parliament] today. Addressing the two houses from his special dais in the house of peers, the sovereign said:

"We feel greatly gratified to see that the relations between Japan and her treaty powers are growing in friendship and cordiality.

"Our officers and men [in China] are winning every battle and enhancing their military prestige both at home and abroad, while the nation behind the gun is solidly uniting in overcoming difficulties attending the current international situation. We are confident of attaining our ultimate objectives."

PANAY BOMBING FILMS DELAYED; COMING BY PLANE

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Reports of snow in mid-Pacific and ice and gale conditions off the California coast today caused Pan-American Airways to postpone for 24 hours the flight of the China Clipper from Honolulu to Alameda with motion picture films of the U. S. S. Panay bombing.

Pan-American said the Clipper would leave Honolulu about midday tomorrow and arrive at Alameda Tuesday morning. She was to have started today.

Norman Alley, newsreel cameraman, was aboard the little American gunboat in the Yangtze river above Nanking, China, when she was bombed by Japanese planes. He photographed the attack.

Alley is accompanying the films, which are to be transferred quickly from the Clipper to a transcontinental plane and rushed to the state department at Washington.

TWENTY JAPANESE WARSHIPS OBSERVED NEAR SOUTH CHINA

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

HONGKONG, Dec. 27 [Monday].—Foreign passengers on a steamer bound for Macao [Portuguese colony] reported that yesterday they saw twenty Japanese warships and transports, including one aircraft carrier, fifteen miles northeast of Macao. The ships were hove to or steaming very slowly. A number of airplanes left the carrier and circled over the Macao bound steamer, making observations. It is believed that the two transports sighted off Bias bay north of Hongkong last week were forerunners of this concentration. It is believed a landing will be made in the Macao hinterland from where the roads lead to Canton.

POPE'S CRITICISM 'ODIOUS,' CHARGE NAZI DEFENDERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—"Particularly odious, absolutely unjustified and wrong" is the description applied by the official German news agency to the references of Pope Pius to Germany during his Christmas address. [The pope told twenty-nine cardinals gathered to bring him Christmas greeting that he was distressed at the persecution of the church in Germany, which continues, he said, although the church is not engaged in political activity.] The papal utterances have not yet been published or referred to in the German press, but the official news agency comments: "Owing to the Christmas quiet ruling everywhere, nobody is taking the slightest notice of them."

BOOKIES READY TO GAMBLE THAT LICENSE IS LEGAL

Several Hundred to Buy Six Month Permits.

There were indications yesterday that several hundred applications for betting broker licenses will be filed with City Collector Louis L. Rixmann on Jan. 3 and thereafter.

The gambling fraternity, according to aldermen, ward committeemen, and others interviewed, welcomes the opportunity of becoming legitimate business men. They stand ready to post $2,500, $1,500 or $500, depending on the location, in a gamble that the new system will be held legal and will be workable and permit them to make a profit.

Enter in Good Faith.

The money posted will be for a six months' license. The gamblers are quoted as saying they will enter into the new arrangement in good faith and expect good faith in return from the city authorities and the courts, though knowing that State's Attorney Courtney and Gov. Horner are opposed to the system.

It is expected that, at least in the beginning, the brokers will send some money to the race tracks as agents of the horse race players. Each broker-bookie will be watching his competitors. They are said to believe that the racing public will not object, at least for the trial period, to paying 10 cents to have a $2 bet sent to the race track, or 50 cents for a $10 bet on a horse.

The questions the prospective licensees are asking, however, concern other fees, the politicians admit. They want to know if there will be favoritism in the granting of licenses—whether they will have to have an O. K. from the ward boss.

They Wonder About Pools.

They are also reported to be asking if they will have to pay money into any real or imaginary political fund or protection pool. Their caution is said to extend also to questions concerning whether or not they will have "syndicate trouble," and after they have obtained a license they will have some evil looking syndicate representative announce that the syndicate is a 50 per cent partner in the enterprise.

Mayor Kelly will be away from the city for a week, but those associated with him say there will be no shakedowns, no favoritism and no muscling. In his behalf it was explained that he is showing his own good faith and will expect all connected with his administration to do likewise.

What will happen to William Skidmore, heretofore a mysterious power connected with the handbook racket, is a question being asked. The men willing to pay for licenses expect Skidmore to be relegated to his junk yard and his extensive stock farm in McHenry county and to collect no more from them, they asserted.

Elimination Is Foreseen.

The political view generally is that the "syndicate," Skidmore and others will be eliminated from the business so that when a test case reaches the state Supreme court the justices may take judicial notice that the Chicago authorities are acting honestly to solve an old problem.

Attorneys Harold Levy and Abraham Marovitz, who represented the defense in a recent test case of the law against horse race gambling, said their advice to all is to conduct themselves so that both sides may go before the Supreme court with clean hands.

MARGUERITE BROKAW.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Some time next month—the exact date has not yet been set—the top layer of New York's four hundred, and a goodly sprinkling of San Francisco's high society will cancel all other engagements to attend the wedding of Marguerite "Peggy" Brokaw and Dr. Charles Crocker.

Dr. Crocker is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crocker of San Francisco. The elder Mr. Crocker, who died last September, was president of the Crocker First National bank of San Francisco for almost half a century.

MAXIE EISEN'S BROTHER SEIZED AFTER GUNPLAY

Jack Eisen, brother of Maxie Eisen, former so-called czar of the fish peddlers, was held at the detective bureau last night following a bloodless shooting in Roy's grill at 1560 North Damen avenue.

Jack Eisen.

Eisen, who is 35 years old and lives at 1257 North Honore street, was depicted as a two-gun man by Sergt. John Fogarty. The sergeant and his squad went to the restaurant at 5 a. m. and found Eisen in front with a revolver in his hand. He dropped the gun, but came up with another one the next instant. He also surrendered this at Fogarty's command.

The shooting, Eisen said, occurred when two strangers tried to hold up the restaurant. He exchanged shots with them, but nobody was hurt, he said. Paul Schwartz, 27 years old, 1535 North California avenue, part owner, and Leo King, 25 years old, 4131 Sheridan road, the waiter, confirmed his story. Eisen told police he owns part of the restaurant, but according to Schwartz he only plays cards there.

EXPECT NEW YEAR WILL FLOAT IN ABOUT AS USUAL

Hotels Looking for Gay, Wet Parties.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The gayest, wettest, most hilarious New Year's eve Chicago has had in years was predicted yesterday by hotel officials. Prices for dining and dancing will be cheaper. Reservations are considerably ahead of last year's at this time. Cellars are replete with every liquor obtainable.

Hotels throughout the city have agreed to charge no more than $10 a person, plus tax. Many places where $12.50 was charged last year and space remained unfilled, this year expect sellouts at $10 or $7.50.

Report Heavy Reservations.

"We have 500 reservations already paid for, and about 300 tentative reservations, in addition to a scheduled party for 600 in the ballroom and another party for 50," a Drake hotel official said. "The Gold Coast room where prices are $10 instead of last year's $12.50, will be sold out."

The Congress hotel reported reservations heavier than last year. About 300 had been made. Prices in the Casino of the Congress will be $10, as compared to $12.50 charged last year. In the Pompeian room the customary New Year's eve price of $5 will obtain. In the Glass Hat, a minimum charge of $2.50 will be made.

Stevens' Prices Little Changed.

At the Stevens hotel, reservations were said to be heavy, totaling 300, against 200 last year at this date. The management expects a sellout. Prices here are little changed. The Continental room last year charged $7.50. In the Boulevard room this year the price will be the same. The grand ballroom will collect $5 a person, compared with $6 last year.

The New Year will be more than just that for the Hotel Sherman. It will be a new century. The original Hotel Sherman opened its doors in 1837 at Randolph and Clark streets, and in that year observed its first New Year's eve celebration. Old records show that rum cost only 25 cents a half pint then. Frank W. Bering, managing director of the hotel, said the hotel expects about 5,000 celebrants at its New Year's eve parties Friday night, or more than Chicago's population a century ago.

College Inn Half Sold.

In the Sherman hotel's College Inn, where a $7.50 price takes the place of last year's $10 charge, the capacity of 700 is half sold now. In the grand ballroom [$5], Bal Tabarin [$6], and Old Town [$3.50] reservations are brisk.

The Morrison hotel is opening its Casino for the night. Last year $12.50 was charged; this year, $7.50. Reservations now total 200. The La Salle hotel has reserved half its Blue Fountain room space, where $7.50 prices will obtain, against last year's $10. All private dining rooms and all corner suites have been reserved. The Bismarck hotel will entertain in three rooms at prices of $6 and $7.50.

The Edgewater Beach hotel plans to limit reservations in its Marine room to 1,000, so that every one will have sufficient room. An elaborate floor show, featuring Orrin Tucker and his orchestra, will be presented. Every woman guest will be given a souvenir. There will be parties in other large dining rooms. A new culinary item, the "Happy New Year" salad, has been added to the menu by its creator, Joseph Baltera, head chef.

ARCHBISHOP ASKS EACH CITIZEN TO WORK FOR PEACE

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The archbishop of Canterbury in a radio address today urged citizens of democratic nations to work as individuals to promote world peace. The speech was delivered on the first anniversary of the "recall to religion" movement which the archbishop proclaimed after the abdication of King Edward VIII.

Democracies, the archbishop said, rest upon the responsible rule of each individual citizen, and he asked each to "rid his own mind of the fears and jealousies which disturb the world." He presented this program of peace for the individual:

"He can strive in his own mind to be fair and generous in his judgment of other nations. He can himself be willing that underlying causes of restlessness and discontent should be examined impartially and in a spirit of good will so that justice, which is the true basis of peace, may be done."

A PRODIGAL SON IS LED AWAY FROM FESTIVE BOARD

The Vincis' Christmas Party Is Disrupted.

Gay was the party held Saturday night in the home of Alfonso Vinci at 1909 Grand avenue. The Christmas tree shone; the board, laden with delicacies from Vinci's grocery, creaked; the guests chattered.

It was more than a Christmas gathering; it was a welcome home to the prodigal son, Mario, who had been away for more than a year. And there were cheering words and the clap of hands when he told what dangers he had braved to spend this, the greatest of holidays, with his own folks.

"What do you want, gentlemen?" asked Alfonso.

"We are looking for Mario Vinci," replied Sergt. Kyran Phelan, the leader of the uninvited guests.

"There is no Mario here," interposed Alfonso's wife. "These are our sons, Leo and John and Joe—and these others are our friends. That Mario—he is far away. I do not know where."

But Sergt. Phelan was not deceived. "On the right arm of Mario Vinci is a tattooed figure," he said. "It is a heart pierced by a dagger. If the men here are not tattooed all is O. K. You can go on with the party. Otherwise—"

With that he strode over to the young man who had been introduced as Joe Vinci, turned back a sleeve, and proudly displayed to the rest of the policemen the symbol of shattered love. And so the party ended.

Vinci, who is 23 years old, has been sought since November, 1936, as one of four men who entered the Pow Wow café in Franklin Park and attempted to hold up more than 100 patrons. One of those present was Policeman Wilfred Woodmaster.

Five Persons Wounded.

He opened fire on the bandits, killing one and forcing the others to flee. Shotgun slugs from the robbers' guns wounded five persons.

Patsy De Chiara, 20 years old, was slain. Two of his companions, Michael La Rocco and Charles Cantanazzo, were arrested later, tried and sentenced to one year to life in prison. They named Vinci as the fourth man.

Vinci was on probation after being convicted of burglary and his description included the tattoo mark. For the last year he had been working at Springfield, O. Yesterday he denied participating in the shooting.

TRAILER BLAZES WAY TO SWAMP ON SUWANNEE

Tribune Writer Looks Over Georgia Marsh.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sarasota, Fla., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—En route to this self-styled tin can tourist capital of the world The TRIBUNE automobile and trailer were parked a day and night "way down upon the Suwannee river" to explore the Okefenokee swamp in Georgia, just north of the Florida line.

This detour from the regular travel routes involved adventures with bad roads that will discourage others from following. But it also involved pioneering a new tour objective being developed by the government. The roads are being improved.

Towed Over Dirt Roads.

After leaving the pavement of U. S. 84 at the village of Homerville, about midway between Valdosta and Waycross, Ga., the trailer was towed south over a dirt road. In places the front axle plowed the high center of loose earth with the engine straining in low gear.

Shovels and the brawn of six Negroes were needed to move the outfit in one place. At another the car had to leave the roadway to smash its way through sapling pines four to eight feet high and to ford a ditch with two feet of muddy water.

About 27 miles from Homerville we crossed the Suwannee at the village of Fargo, and then, after 12 miles of plowing through loose sandy soil, we came to Lem Griffis' fishing camp, one of the two entrances to the Okefenokee. It is the entrance where resides the federal refuge manager, Earle Greene. The other is on a sideroad from U. S. 1 at Folkston, Ga.

Writer Tells of Visit.

Lem, who is rearing a fourth generation of the Griffis family in this swamp isolation, sat before a fireplace with Mr. Greene, who is an officer of the biological survey, while they told me what I was to see. It's a marsh of 1,500 square miles, with cypress forests, with tupelo, bay and white holly jungles; acres of tall grass growing in two feet of water over two or three feet of soft mud, and lakes of shallow brown water bordered by lily pads and "boat runs"—narrow winding channels—choked with vegetation but forming a connection between the lakes.

In the center of this watered wilderness the department of agriculture paid $1.50 an acre last February for 293,824 acres and is contemplating the acquisition of 200,000 more acres as a migratory bird refuge.

Must Have U. S. Guide.

Firearms are not permitted on this reservation and, for reasons which became apparent on a boat trip into the area, no one is permitted to enter the government property without one of the licensed federal guides.

"We don't want tourists to be lost in the swamp," said Mr. Greene, "and we want to keep out the native hunters and trappers. We're protecting the alligators, wildcats, deer, bears, and other wild life as well as the migratory birds and the tourists."

Arrangements were made for a three man expedition into the marsh to start at dawn. The story of that trip will be told in a subsequent article. Today's story will end as this first day on the Okefenokee was ended by a boat ride on the Suwanee with Lem to watch the evening flight of ducks.

Stephen Collins Foster, according to an accepted story, picked this river's name for his song from a geography map without having seen the stream.

Tall cypresses, with Spanish moss dangling like ragged funeral crêpe, line the river. The water, about 40 feet wide, flows without a ripple, the banks, if there are any, are screened by tupelo and other high brush rising thick from shallow water. Ducks' wings whistle overhead.

Tribune Trailer at Tin Can Tourist Capital

I. C. VIADUCT DEADLINE IS JAN. 1, BUT IT'S ONLY ONE-HALF COMPLETED

Although Jan. 1, 1938, is the deadline for the completion of the Illinois Central-Randolph street viaduct, only half the project has been finished. This half was completed by the park district. The unfinished half is awaiting the railroad's share of construction. Under an agreed ordinance amendment, the park and the railroad were to split the improvement task, with the railroad assuming the additional job of building a lower level.

Park officials said yesterday they are uncertain what steps will be taken to speed action by the railroad. Railroad executives have previously explained they have no funds to carry out the improvement. The viaduct, as planned, will be 128 feet wide, extend from Michigan avenue to the outer drive, and accommodate eight motor lanes, exclusive of sidewalks and lower level truck lanes.

Yesterday, like Christmas day, was sunshiny in Chicago and the mercury crept near the 40 mark in the afternoon. Forecaster C. A. Donnel said it would be much colder early today, with a minimum between 15 and 20 degrees, but that it would be warmer today, though cloudy.

DROPS DEAD WAITING FOR TRAIN.

Shoots Fiancee; Runs Auto Over Her; Held for Murder

Newark, N. J., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Twenty motorists and strollers were witnesses today when Vincent Franco, 26 years old, dragged his sweetheart, Antoinette Imperalie, 22, from an automobile and beat her on her head with a lead pipe. When she tried to run he shot her twice. As she lay in the street he drove the car over her body, alighted, and fired two more shots. Then he tried to kill himself, but the revolver jammed. Seized by a policeman, he said: "She didn't love me." He was held for murder.

CLOWNS LAUGH 'CAUSE THEY LIKE TO, THEY INSIST

This Pagliacci Stuff Is All Wrong, Say Actors.

Circus clowns are not Pagliaccis and their painted, grotesque grins do not hide any broken hearts. A TRIBUNE reporter venturing behind the scenes of the Shrine Winter circus at the International amphitheater last night, interviewed several of the show's leading clowns, all of whom were loud in their denials of the "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" myth.

"Ach, nein," commented Germany's Otto Greibling, who yesterday marked his twenty-fifth year as a baggy-trousered, bulbous-nosed funster with European and American circuses. "We are always happy, off stage and on. We don't like to be sad when the show is finished. Our fun-making comes from the heart." Otto was born into a family of circus folk more than forty years ago; his parents were clowns and trick riders, and his circus apprenticeship consisted of clowning in small traveling circuses.

Adler's Favorite Profession.

Another whose fantastic facial design belied his erudite comment was Felix Adler, who also has spent more than twenty-five years making people laugh.

"A lot of people think there is something mentally wrong with us because we take up clowning," he declared. "That's not so. It's not because of any psychological complex . . . it's because there's no better profession in the world than making people happy." In a moment, he was prancing about in the arena, his oversized gloves and shoes flapping crazily.

Then Charles [Shorty] Flynn—four and one-half feet tall and a veteran clown trick rider—spoke up. "We aren't what most people think—a lot of Punchinellos with the tears running down our grease paint. Clowning is our art and we keep on kidding and joking after we take off our costumes and wipe off the paint."

As if to illustrate his joviality, the diminutive clown leaped upon his 34 year old mule, Virgil, and waved his arms. "Come on, Virgil, old kid," he shouted, "let's get going." The mule ambled into the arena.

Runs to Jan. 8.

The show, which runs to Jan. 8, is under the auspices of the Medinah temple. Among the 200 performers presenting 60 acts each afternoon and evening are Capt. Terrell Jacobs, who directs fifteen lions in a cage; Miss Jennie Rooney's aerial ballet of 30 trapeze artists; the Wallenda Troupe, high wire performers; the Flying Concellos, trapeze performers; Hoot Gibson of wild west and movie fame; and performing seals, trained dogs, bareback riding troupes, pony parades, and side show freaks.

A great horned owl with a fifty-nine inch wing spread was caught near dawn yesterday on the Tribune experimental farm near Wheaton when an incautious step on a hawk trap ended its flight.

The owl, its large green eyes glaring balefully, was found by John Rawlings, flockmaster, as it struggled unsuccessfully to free its leg from the steel trap, set atop a high pole. Aside from scratches on the right leg, it was unhurt and was given to the Chicago zoölogical park at Brookfield, where it was described as a beautiful specimen by Robert Bean, assistant director.

The bird, known as the great horned or the Virginia eared owl, derives its name from the erect tufts, covered with feathers, which sprout like ears on either side of its head. Its feathers are speckled gray, brown and white.

Boy, 12, Examines Gun of Friend; Critically Shot

Edward Minarczyk, 12 years old, 1313 Huron street, was shot in the abdomen last night while examining a pistol owned by William [Sonny Johnson] Pisano, 19 years old, 1301 Erie street. The boy is in a critical condition in St. Mary's hospital. Police arrested Pisano, though both he and the wounded boy said the shooting was accidental. Pisano said he bought the gun from a stranger Saturday, and that he meant to use it for a New Year's eve celebration.

A Foe of Gambling

Mrs. Irene Kite, 32 years old, of Alton, who crippled gambling there Dec. 18 when she raided ten taverns and smashed fourteen slot machines with an ax, was a visitor in Chicago yesterday. In the afternoon she brandished her ax and told of her exploit over a national radio hookup.

"There isn't a slot machine left in Alton," said Mrs. Kite, who is blonde and husky. "I've been invited to do the same thing in Chicago, but I'm interested only in Alton. I've always been opposed to gambling."

Thieves Take an Inventory; Eat Some; Carry Rest Out

When Christ Cauchelas opened his candy store and luncheonette at 3200 North Cicero avenue yesterday he discovered that burglars had been there most of the night. Not satisfied with taking $200 worth of cigars, $160 worth of cigarettes, $50 worth of candy and $75 in cash, the burglars had helped themselves to steak sandwiches, sundaes and sodas. Policeman John Houch and Stanley Olszewski of Irving Park station learned from persons in the neighborhood that three or four boys worked for several hours in the store with lights blazing, and told persons who tried to get in that they were taking an inventory.

You say our TRIANGLE food is tastier . . . our chefs say the reason is that ALL we buy to cook for you is clean and fresh and fine. And . . . our chefs are famous chefs.

IDENTIFY GIRL, 12, KILLED BY AUTO CHRISTMAS EVE

Struck on Way to Friends with Gifts.

The body of a girl fatally injured in a Christmas eve automobile accident was identified yesterday in the chapel at 4907 Archer avenue as that of Lucille Goslawski, 12 years old. The child lived with her mother, Frances, a widow, at 2110 West 18th place.

Stanley Dublanski, 4307 Drake avenue, husband of Lucille's sister, made the identification. He said the girl came to their home Friday afternoon with Christmas gifts and then left to take other presents to friends. Mrs. Goslawski thought Lucille had decided to stay overnight with the Dublanskis, and it was not until Christmas day that her disappearance was noted.

Another Injured by Same Car.

The accident occurred at Archer and Homan avenues. The girl was struck by a car driven by Reinhold Lueder, 42 years old, of Fort Atkinson, Wis. George Adams, 42 years old, 4443 South Trumbull avenue, was also hit by the auto. Lueder is being held. Lucille's father was killed by an automobile two years ago.

A second victim of a Christmas eve accident died yesterday. She was Mrs. Anna Rose Ferris, 57 years old, 15408 South Paulina street, Harvey, who was struck by a car near her home as she was returning from shopping. Mrs. Ferris died in the Ingalls Memorial hospital in the suburb.

An unidentified man about 45 years old, fairly well dressed, was struck and fatally injured by an automobile at Cottage Grove avenue and 69th street last night. He died in the Woodlawn hospital. The driver of the car sped on after the accident.

Arrested for Manslaughter.

Richard H. Clemence Jr., 18 years old, 827 Monroe street, Evanston, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter last night after an automobile he was driving struck and killed an unidentified man in Oakton street near Florence avenue, Evanston. The victim was about 50 years old. Young Clemence, a high school student, is the son of Richard H. Clemence Sr., head of a construction company.

Clarence McDonald, colored, 50 years old, 1829 Ashland avenue, Evanston, died in the Provident hospital last night of injuries incurred in an automobile accident at 60th street and Michigan avenue. McDonald was on the sidewalk when a cab driven by Galiton McNeal, colored, 5700 Indiana avenue, and a car driven by Peter Wilkomer, 1555 South Kedzie avenue, collided. The cab, hurled over the curb, struck McDonald.

Robert Maskoff, 58 years old, 1426 Newberry avenue, died last night in the County hospital of injuries suffered on Dec. 18 when he was struck at Jackson boulevard and Wolcott avenue by an automobile driven by Richard Eggcks, 47 years old, 4140 Odell avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 1,084 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 828 were killed in Chicago, where 22,504 persons were injured in the same period.

SON COLLAPSES ON LEARNING HIS SHOT KILLED DAD

Thomas Burns, 32 years old, collapsed at the Stockyards police station yesterday when he learned that his father, James, whom he shot during a quarrel Christmas morning in their home at 709 West 47th street, had died in the Mercy hospital. According to the younger Burns, the quarrel was over some trivial matter that came up during a party.

Thomas Burns.

"I can't recall what it was," he said. "But certainly I had no intention of killing or even harming my father."

An inquest into the death will be held today. The elder Burns, who was 65 years old, was a retired watchman once employed by the city.

KILLS HIMSELF AFTER PHONING TO UNDERTAKER

At 2 o'clock this morning, Alfred Kottmann, assistant at the Walter R. Starr undertaking establishment at 851 East 75th street, received a telephone call form a man telling him to "come over to the real estate office at 753 East 75th street, and pick up a body."

Kottmann went over, found the door open, and entered. He stumbled over a body. He summoned Grand Crossing police, who discovered that the victim was O. Clyde Black, owner of the real estate office. He had been shot in the head, and evdently, police said, had called the undertaker before committing suicide.

The revolver was found under his body. A card, bearing an incoherent message, was found on a nearby desk. Black was about 63 years old and lived at 7217 South Park avenue. He formerly was secretary of the South Side Building and Loan association.

FORGOTTEN MAN OF COUNTY JAIL TO RETURN TODAY

Raymond E. Prochnow, who has served three years in debtors' row at the County jail for contempt of court, will surrender to Sheriff John Toman today and return to his cell, Prochnow's attorney, John F. Tyrrell, said yesterday.

Known as the jail's forgotten man, Prochnow was released Nov. 21, 1936, by Judge Harry M. Fisher, who held he had been punished sufficiently for has failure to account for $35,282 left in his keeping by Attorney William Garnett, now deceased. The Appellate court, on Nov. 10 of this year, overruled Judge Fisher and ordered the re-imprisonment of Prochnow, who was described as a confessed embezzler. Tyrrell said he would request Judge Fisher to release Prochnow on bail pending a new hearing in January.

Mrs. Daisy Tegtmeyer, who has served four years in jail for refusing to tell what became of $30,000 assets of an estate, has also been ordered back to her cell by the Appellate court. She is at liberty on bond and her attorney has until Jan. 8 to file an appeal.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Eleanor Powell, stage and screen tap dancer, tried something new in leaving prints of her hands and feet in the wet cement in the forecourt of the Chinese theater in Hollywood. For years screen notables have made their marks at this theater, but Miss Powell was not content with ordinary route. She did a simple tap step ending in the cement. Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

JOBS AND THE STOCK MARKET

By CALEB

A NATIONALLY known gentleman recently remarked in an address that the country has rarely been more prosperous than it is today. The stock market slump, he indicated, affects only an insignificant few people. It is foolish to let stock market declines influence our thinking because, he indicated, they do not affect many people.

•

WE RECENTLY heard of a large business in this country which had budgeted over three million dollars for capital expenditures during its current fiscal year. The stock market declined. That decline was tied up indissolubly with public nervousness and lack of confidence. It affected and was affected by steel production, car loadings, and many other things.

Government and other indices are unobtrusive and do not directly lead to public discouragement. The stock market is dramatic and obvious. When it gyrates, the feelings of the people gyrate.

Therefore, when the market is radically depressed, many people become depressed and they reduce their buying.

The business referred to above deemed it wise, in turn, to reduce its buying. It postponed indefinitely purchasing a million dollars' worth of facilities.

Similar postponements of capital expenditures have been repeated in dozens and hundreds of businesses across the breadth of this land since August.

The men in overalls who would have labored many hundreds of days on the capital expenditures referred to will not have that work to do. And this is but one illustration.

The relatively few thousands of people who maintain broker accounts do considerable spending in retail stores. When the market is definitely hazardous and depressed, they obviously do not spend so much. That means fewer jobs for the makers of manufactured products and fewer jobs for people who sell them.

In this day and age when good news and bad news speed like lightning to the remotest ends of our country, anything which works radical optimistic or pessimistic change in the outlook of a large group of people, immediately affects other large groups, and the nation!

Invisible but fateful links chain us, as a people, all together, in our modern economy.

TERUEL BATTLE HORRORS BARED BY SURVIVORS

Claim Firing Squad Took Lives of Many.

bad for me. The hams are worth five times as much now as they were when the rebels had control."

This is true. Prices are low in rebel territory, but the people have little to buy with. There is plenty of money in loyalist Spain and prices stay high.

Naturally the government forces are happy. In the outskirts last night the troops, knowing that the fog rendered them safe from rebel planes, sat about their twinkling camp fires and sang carols until after midnight. It was the one lull in the fighting since it started five days ago and these men made the most of it. To them the occasional firing in the city brought no immediate fears.

Pass Food Around Campfires.

At one of these hospitable fires I joined the officers of a brigade at supper. We had canned tuna fish, chops with tomato sauce, bread and jam. There was a shortage of knives, so the commanding officer obligingly smeared the jam on the bread and passed it around. A pleasant feast in the nipping cold, with the soldiers of Aragon strumming their mandolins nearby and the air ringing with the sound of their native jotas [dances].

In retrospect one must be amazed at the slight resistance set up against the government attacks on Teruel. On several occasions the rebel forces fled or surrendered strong points without waiting for battle. Then, when the front lines broke, the defenders retreated far into the town, neglecting to occupy the elaborate trench system and the concrete pillboxes that had been established as reserve lines of defense.

Capture Natural Fortress.

With little effort and in only two days the loyalists occupied the top of the hill called Mansueto, the sheer sides of which would have been impregnable with even a small garrison on top, assuming that this garrison was courageous and firmly directed.

At two other key positions, the Puerto de Escandon and the Ermita [hermitage], near Castralvo, the government forces found the going just as easy. They first stormed the village of Pancho Villa, near the Escandon, which commands the eastern approaches to Teruel. Then they moved against the Escandon fortifications. The first day they were repulsed. Gathered for a supreme effort the second day, the loyalists moved forward with determination, only to find that the defenders had fled.

The hermitage, standing at the top of a hill that descends in sheer rock slopes, had been defensively improved with cement breastworks and dugouts which military experts believe were designed by German engineers who remembered the Hindenburg line of the world war.

Send Up White Flag.

Bombardments and charges by the loyalists failed against this fortification. There was some surprise, therefore, when at the end of several days of fighting the garrison sent up a white flag. It was learned that civil guards, the backbone of the rebel forces, had been called back to Teruel and the ordinary troops who replaced them got tired of battle and quit.

Great heroism was shown by the attackers. Throughout the struggle for Teruel there was a bitter gale blowing and much snow fell. Some of the soldiers froze to death and many others who collapsed were revived with massage and other treatments.

Counterattacks, with the purpose of retaking some of the territory held by the government, were concentrated yesterday near Campillo. Violent assaults were made on the hill known as Pico de Zorro [Fox peak] but the loyalists held their positions in the face of rifle fire and bayonet charges.

Military experts with the loyalists hold the opinion that Gen. Franco failed to realize the important nature of the government's effort in the early stages and therefore delayed the arrival of reinforcements.

Madrid Bombarded

(Story in adjoining column.)

Events in Spain yesterday included (1) a rebel bombardment of Madrid, (2) surrender of several groups of rebel "holdouts" at Teruel, (3) launching of government offensive in Jaen province.

NAVAL BUILDING AND TAX REPEAL UP TO CONGRESS

President Is Writing Two Messages.

Japanese Build in Secret.

The extent of the Japanese navy building program is veiled in secrecy. It is supposed to include three or four capital ships and some 60 other craft. It is contended that unless the United States expands its building program it will be in danger of losing parity with the British fleet and any substantial superiority to the Japanese.

Another consideration is that an enlargement of the American navy would create a wholesome respect for the United States abroad, particularly in the orient where the Panay affair has brought home to Americans the realization of the value of the "big stick" in commanding respect for American interests by the war lords of Japan.

Still another consideration is that a navy construction program calling for the immediate expenditure of 1 billion dollars or more would revive business and provide reëmployment for several hundred thousand men who have lost their jobs since the onset of the new depression. Such an economic "shot in the arm" would check the business recession, Democratic leaders believe, and thereby would dispel any danger of the Democrats losing the congressional elections next year.

Rearmament Urged.

Significant of the attitude of Democratic leaders is the advocacy of rearmament by Representative Edward T. Taylor of Colorado, chairman of the house appropriations committee.

"I feel," said Mr. Taylor, "that conditions have changed throughout the world so much since August that our country would be justified in showing the world that we are going to get ready and that we are not hunting a fight, but are not afraid of one."

Even the desire for a balanced budget, Mr. Taylor added, should not be allowed to interfere with "systematic improvement of the national defense."

EX-CHICAGOAN FOUND DEAD IN ARIZONA DESERT

Theodore L. Petta, 76 years old, former Chicago real estate dealer, was found dead yesterday in the desert near Tucson, Ariz. He had disappeared last week while en route from his home in Los Angeles to visit his children here.

Deputy Sherif Mark Robbins of Tucson said that Petta probably had wandered from a bus and become lost. Death was due to natural causes. About $600 was found in Petta's pockets, setting aside any theory of criminality.

Petta leaves five children surviving in Chicago. One is Mrs. Clara Cunningham, 2911 North Central avenue, wife of R. A. Cunningham, retired city fireman. According to Cunningham, Petta left Chicago for California 35 years ago. He operated a real estate business at Western and Fullerton avenues prior to that time, and was considered wealthy.

FALL ON SIDEWALK IS FATAL.

William H. Thornton, 83 years old, 260 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, died yesterday in the Frances Willard hospital of injuries incured in a sidewalk fall Dec. 15. He was a watchman employed at the Hot Point Appliance company, 5600 Taylor street.

TROOPS CLOSE ON GANG SOUGHT IN GALILEE KILLINGS

JERUSALEM, Dec. 26.—(AP)—British troops closed in from three directions today on a band of Arab terrorists responsible for three days of bloody Christmas fighting in the hills of Galilee.

The official casualty list showed thirty known dead in the guerilla warfare, although unofficial estimates put the toll as high as fifty-three. British Lieutenant M. W. Mountain and Private J. S. Creasy were killed and three British soldiers were wounded. The other twenty-eight known dead were Arabs.

The remnant of the terrorist gang —about 200 strong—was pushing desperately toward the closely guarded Transjordan frontier.

REBEL GUNS FIRE LATE CHRISTMAS CARD TO MADRID

Loyalists Hail Teruel Fall as Turning Point.

MADRID, Dec. 26.—(AP)—While rebel artillery pounded Madrid for three hours today in a delayed Christmas greeting neutral observers took stock of prospects in the Spanish civil war and concluded they had been altered materially by the government's capture of Teruel, in eastern Spain.

They agreed generally that the war, now in its eighteenth month, had been prolonged probably for another year and that government chances of victory were improved. Government leaders have declared the capture of Teruel, keypoint of a dangerous rebel salient in Lower Aragon, was the turning of the tide.

Today's bombardment at Madrid was intermittent but the most prolonged in months. Two theaters were partly wrecked and a line of ticket buyers at one was sent fleeing, leaving two dead and twelve wounded.

Remnant of Garrison Resists.

Government officers admitted some remnants of the rebel garrison at Teruel still were holding out in an isolated section of the old city. But they said the victory already gained had proved the government can attack as well as defend and hereafter the rôle of the armies would be reversed, with the government on the offensive.

Foreign observers agreed that if the victory at Teruel on the snow covered eastern front could be repeated elsewhere, the situation would be changed, not alone in Spain, but in Europe.

Rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco's greatest ally has been the time element.

His generals are considered to have missed winning the war time after time by not striking decisively when government troops were on the run.

Foreign experts have believed that since the May reorganization, Spain has achieved a strong government, able to organize under adverse conditions a large scale army.

Seeks 1,000,000 Men Under Arms.

The goal of a million men under arms probably will be realized before 1938 is out. The government is planning for war on a long time basis: Service schools are opening which will not graduate their first officers for six months; preliminary training has begun for draft classes which are not expected to be called for nearly a year.

Defeat has tempered and strengthened the government armies which, while they had to surrender the isolated north, have gained in being able to unite their forces on a continuous front.

Teruel, spearhead of the rebel thrust into government Spain, was besieged after the government had waited two months to see what Franco would do after he completed his conquest of the northwest.

Loyalists Advance 25 Miles.

In actual military gain the Teruel drive has meant that the government lines have advanced about 25 miles, a relatively large area has been conquered and its key position taken. The rebels have lost the jumping off place from which it seemed they had the best chance of striking swiftly to reach the Mediterranean and end the war.

Gen. Franco moved up fresh troops in an attempt to regain control of the highway from Teruel north to Saragossa and recapture Teruel. These are under command of Gen. Miguel Aranda.

On the extreme southern front, the long-inactive government forces began a maneuver to cut off two strategic sectors on the western edge of Jaen province near Santiago de Calatrava. Government officers said their artillery had shelled the road between Valenzuela and Albendin in adjacent Cordoba province and compelled the rebels to fall back.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Johnny Weissmuller and his fiery wife, Lupe Velez, were to be together here today. She was due to arrive from Mexico City and find out why he went to Hawaii for a visit instead of coming down to Mexico City after her. Johnny landed a few days ago from Hawaii and found waiting for him a pair of boxing gloves, Lupe's Christmas gift to him, which he may need to defend himself when she asks about that Hawaiian trip.

ISADORE SIGLER.

2 ROOMING HOUSES BURN.

An overheated furnace was blamed for a fire which early yesterday caused $3,000 damage to two three story rooming houses at 9129 and 9131 Exchange avenue. Twenty residents were driven to the street and David Peterson, 47 years old, operator of the house at 9129, was cut on the left leg when he kicked in a window to warn two roomers.

HIS ANGEL FACE STARTS AND ENDS A CRIME CAREER

Isadore Sigler, 19 years old, 1430 South Karlov avenue, who was arrested last Wednesday after he and a companion had used a toy pistol successfully in a robbery, told the Rogers Park police yesterday that he became a criminal because he had an inferior complex.

"You can see," he said, "that I have nice red cheeks and plenty of light, curly hair. The tough boys in my neighborhood all called me Angel Face or Sissy. So I went out to prove that I was just as tough as they are."

Sigler and his confederate, Hyman Portugais, 16 years old, 3316 Roosevelt road, took a watch and an automobile from Max Resnick, 704 Independence boulevard. They were seized at Morse and Western avenues by policemen who recognized the license number of the car, while they were fleeing from an intended victim who was impelled by Sigler's angel face to resist.

GEORGE VI. OKAYS PLAN OF KIN TO WED PRINCE PAUL

SANDRINGHAM, Dec. 26.—(AP)—King George VI. tonight gave his assent to the wedding of Prince Paul of Greece, heir presumptive to the Greek throne, and Princess Frederika Luise of Brunswick.

The king acted, after a meeting of the privy council, under the royal marriages act which requires his permission before any member of a branch of the royal family may be wed.

The 20 year old daughter of the duke of Brunswick is a great-great-granddaughter of Queen Victoria. The 35 year old prince, a distant cousin of the princess, is also related to the British royal family.

Their wedding will take place Jan. 9 in the cathedral in Athens, Greece.

PLEASED

"I was so pleased when REM relieved Wayne's cough, I used it for Eileen and myself."

Mrs. C. N. Abell

Here's the point:

"So pleased!"—says Mrs. Abell, because her boy got such good results from REM. REM goes after a cough two ways . . . in the throat and also systemically. That's why it's so thorough—for coughs resulting from colds. REM is much more than just a "tickle stopper."

SCIENCE MEETS TO FORM COURT OF KNOWLEDGE

Aim to Exert Moral Force on World's Problems.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The American Association for the Advancement of Science, which opens its 101st annual convention here tomorrow, will consider far-reaching steps aimed to unite the scientists of the world's democratic countries into an articulate body of organized knowledge.

The avowed purpose of this group would be to focus the scattered light of man's collective wisdom into a mighty intellectual beam illuminating the troubled paths of men and nations.

Steps to be considered are an outgrowth of a movement initiated simultaneously in the summer of 1936 at the Harvard tercentenary conference and at the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Blackpool, England, for the creation of a supreme court of knowledge.

Will Exert Moral Force.

Under guidance of the world's scientists, this court would exert a moral force on the political and social spheres similar to the force exerted on these realms by the medieval universities, particularly the University of Paris.

At the Harvard tercentenary the challenge was issued by Prof. Etienne Gilson of the University of Paris, one of the world's leading scholars. He urged universities, scientists, artists, and philosophers to assume the responsibility of teaching that there is a spiritual order of realities whose absolute right it is to judge even the state, and eventually to free us from its oppression.

Prof. Gilson's challenge led to an unscheduled symposium, with the authorization of President James B. Conant of Harvard, in which a committee of the National Association of Science Writers asked a group of leading scholars for an opinion on the advisability of forming a permanent "court of wisdom." The scholars favored such a plan.

British Sponsor a Plan.

At the same time a similar proposal was made to a group of leading British scientists, headed by Sir Josiah Stamp. As a result, British leaders of science came out with a far reaching declaration for a democratic world association of science.

As a result of the pleas for an organization to make science effective in direct aid to an upset world, Dr. F. R. Moulton, executive secretary of the association, set to work on initial steps to widen the sphere of activities of the association—steps calculated to broaden the activities of the association in a manner to bring it in closer touch with larger masses of the people.

These steps, considered essential as a first move toward clearing the ground for broader action, will be considered by the council of the association during this week.

Seek to Ward Off Fetters.

"It is evident to every scientist that dictatorship in science is intolerable and destructive of its very spirit," Dr. Moulton stated. "That freedom in science is in danger is not a fiction of the imagination. In several great countries, arbitrary controls of many of the pronouncements of science already are in effect.

"Science is the first line defense of freedom of the mind. Of all things, it, on the whole, is most nearly objective and least involved in the prejudices and emotions of men. Its conclusions are capable of being most easily tested. When free, it knows no nationality, race or creed. Its spirit is a model for the world. Hence the battle for freedom can be fought most easily in science."

HAMILTON BACK FROM 9 MEETINGS ON WEST COAST

John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee passed through Chicago yesterday on his way back to Washington after a speedy visit to the three Pacific coast states. In less than nine days he made the round trip from Chicago and spoke at nine meetings in Washington, Oregon and California.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "all the meetings were held in three days as most of my available time was taken up with travel. We had one state meeting in Tacoma, a similar meeting at Portland, where a also spoke to a meeting of young Republicans, and three meetings in San Francisco and three in Los Angeles.

New Pacific Air Route

Demand Quiz on Berry's Marble Leases in Dam

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The public welfare council of Knoxville passed a resolution today asking for a congressional investigation of the purchase of marble and mineral leases in the TVA's Norris dam reservoir by Senator George L. Berry and others.

A federal commission which heard the authority's suit to condemn the lease holdings is expected to give a decision on their value the latter part of January.

CLIPPER REACHES NEW ZEALAND ON FIRST TEST HOP

Service Linking U. S. with Australia Planned.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Dec. 26.—The Pan-American Airways' Samoan Clipper landed here on its 4,414 mile flight from Honolulu this afternoon, completing final inspection of a new South Pacific air lane prior to the inauguration of regular fortnightly service between Auckland and Honolulu [and thence to the United States] at dawn Wednesday.

Capt. Edwin C. Musick, who made the trip with a crew of seven other American airmen, reported an uneventful journey, with fine weather prevailing. A cheering holiday crowd of 10,000 watched the landing at the newly installed airport, where tomorrow the British Imperial Airways' Centaurus, flying from Sydney, 1,264 miles away, will moor beside the Clipper at the conclusion of the first commercial survey of the Tasman sea route. The two surveys are preparatory to regular service completing a world route from the United States to Australia.

Dignitaries See Landing.

Dignitaries from the United States, New Zealand, England, and Europe watched the landing. Included among them was Prime Minister Joseph Savage.

The arrival of the Clipper found the city, including thousands of Christmas visitors, in high excitement, following radioed reports of the plane's progress. Capt. Musick and his men are now considered old friends, following a first survey flight by the same ship in April. Capt. Musick was greeted by name by hundreds of eager Aucklanders, and the authorities had difficulty in preventing the jubilant holiday makers from overwhelming the visitors. It was also difficult to clear the harbor of hundreds of pleasure craft carrying crowds which wished to see the ship land.

The cheering of the crowd drowned the roar of the Samoan Clipper's motors. A repetition of this scene again tomorrow is likely with the arrival of the Centaurus, which is commanded by a youthful New Zealander, Capt. J. W. Burgess.

No Passengers Yet.

The Centaurus took off from Southampton, England, early in December, thence following the empire route by easy stages, arriving in Sydney yesterday. The flight to Auckland is expected to precede a regular service which will link the Pan-American and Imperial Airways routes, permitting regular commercial air trips from Los Angeles to Sydney.

The Clipper on Wednesday will carry mail and freight northward on its first regular flight. It will carry special first flight covers bought by stamp collectors throughout New Zealand and Australia. No passengers will be carried until the delivery of giant Boeing planes in a few months. At that time a busy tourist trafic is confidently anticipated. Numerous enthusiastic and wealthy New Zealanders and Australians are already inquiring about the passenger accommodations.

PLAY TOUCHES HIGH SPOTS OF CITY'S HISTORY

'When Chicago Was Young' to Aid Charities.

"WHEN CHICAGO WAS YOUNG."

A play by Alice Gerstenberg and Herma Clark; staged in the Studebaker theater Dec. 26, 1937, under the auspices of a civic committee for the benefit of various charities; Garrett H. Leverton, director.

THE PLAYERS.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The revival of "When Chicago Was Young," a chronicle play by Alice Gerstenberg and Herma Clark, in the Studebaker theater last night for a month's performances under charitable auspices, is of sufficient interest to attract the general playgoer. This work is a study on a small scale of the city's growth from the pre-civil war period to the present. It has the spirit of municipal enthusiasm which inspired the founders, and it touches a few high spots of civic history, such as the fire of 1871 and the fair of 1893, in a mildly dramatic manner.

The mood of the production is sentimental and nostalgic, and the authors have given more attention to family traditions and the manners of the swiftly changing periods of Chicago life than to the industrial saga of the region. They have demonstrated, however, a sense for authentic detail, and have put into their four scenes of bygone years a persuasive feeling for the roaring and chaotic romance of Chicago's development.

Competent Cast Assembled.

Garrett H. Leverton, director of dramatic activities at Northwestern university, has assembled a fairly competent cast, recruited from radio studios and semi-professional groups, and has rehersed it into a well balanced ensemble. The costuming is attractive and in correct period styles, and the stage furnishings for some of the interiors are genuine Chicago relics.

The scenes represent the lobby of the Tremont house on July 10, 1858; the porch of a residence on Ontario street on Oct. 8, 1871; the interior of a house on Wabash avenue near 32th street, three days later; and a parlor off the ballroom of the Potter Palmer mansion on June 9, 1893, when the Infanta Eulalia of Spain was guest of honor. A prolog and epilog are placed on the terrace of the Tavern club, in the present time.

Audiences Turned Away.

"Wine of Choice" ended its two weeks' stay at the Erlanger theater by omitting its scheduled matinée and evening performances on Christmas day. Audiences were turned away, with refunding of ticket costs.

The cause of this unexpected gap in the schedule for Christmas playgoing was rehersals of a rewritten version of the play, in which Alexander Woollcott will have the rôle of Binkie, formerly acted by Henry Wagstaff Gribble. Woollcott will give his first performance in Philadelphia this evening.

Blame Fire in Dress Shop on Inept Work of Burglars

Fire in the rear room of the Florence dress shop at 2615 Devon avenue yesterday was caused, in the opinion of firemen, by the inept work of burglars who attempted unsuccessfully to break into a safe with an electric drill and overheated some wires. The blaze, which did about $100 damage, forced the burglars to flee, but they took fifty dresses valued at several hundred dollars.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Two persons burned to death today and four others suffered serious burns when a heater ignited a Christmas tree. TRIPLE SLAYER TO EVADE TRIAL AND TAKE PLEA

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Robert Irwin, charged with first degree murder, never will stand trial for the triple Easter slaying of Mrs. May Gedeon, her daughter Veronica, and a boarder named Frank Byrnes in the Gedeon home, it was indicated today.

The Irwin case will be one of the first big holdovers to get the attention of Thomas E. Dewey after he takes office as district attorney next Saturday, and in view of the generally accepted belief that Irwin is insane, Dewey, it was understood, is disposed to accept a plea of guilty to a lesser charge providing a life sentence.

Samuel S. Liebowitz, Irwin's attorney, is prepared to urge Irwin to make such a plea provided an understanding is reached between himself and Dewey, although he had looked forward to a trial of Irwin for first degree murder as an opportunity to attack the New York state laws bearing upon criminal insanity as archaic.

CHRISTMAS TREE SALE HEAVY, BUT MANY LEFT OVER

While commission merchants estimate that more Christmas trees were sold this year than any previous year since 1929 there were still several thousands that had not been sold when the deadline arrived early Christmas morning. A trip to the Randolph street market yesterday found a number strewn along the street.

Approximately a half million trees were sold in Chicago, but the large supply shipped here could not be completely absorbed. Prices were from 25 to 50 per cent less than last year.

One commission merchant reported there was only one year when unsold trees could not be found in vacant lots and on the streets. That was in 1935.

Launch Hunt for Missing Brokerage Firm Manager

Police last night were asked to search for J. Raymond McMahon, 34 years old, office manager for A. O. Slaughter & Co., stock brokers at 120 South La Salle street, who disappeared Christmas eve after he left his office for his home at 4233 North Francisco avenue. His wife, Mildred, said he was carrying a large sum of money.

And when you ride the "L", you have no car to bother with . . . no parking space to hunt . . . no traffic to fight. You travel on a private right-of-way . . . unhampered by street congestion . . . unmindful of the weather. You board your train under cover, get off under cover.

Tomorrow, take one of the 5,383 fast, comfortable trains that are operated for your convenience every working day. Relax. Read your paper. Save time. Save trouble. Come up on the "L"!

WORLD RECORD BROKEN AGAIN!

On December 10 the Rapid Transit Lines operated 71 trains from its North Side Division into the Loop in the one hour period between 8 A. M. and 9 A. M. This established a new World's Record for the number of trains operated over a single track in an hour's time.

We are now pleased to announce that on Friday morning, December 24, this record was again broken—72 trains composed of 414 cars being operated from the North Side Division alone. The weather was dark and cloudy and ice made street travel hazardous.

Again we publicly commend our Operating Organization for its high efficiency.

LABOR DECISION IS ANALYZED BY UNION LAWYERS

Ruling on Wisconsin Law Prompts Comment.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis. Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A decision by Judge Alvin C. Reis of the Dane county Circuit court that a Wisconsin employer may favor one union over another and sign agreements with any bona fide union of his choice under the new state labor act, apparently is of more importance to labor organizers and unions than it is to employers, in the opinion of Milwaukee attorneys today.

Judge Alvinn Reis.

Judge Reis' decision held that it made no difference under the act whether the union chosen by an employer had a majority, a minority, or even no members at all, if it advanced the primary objective of the statute, which he said is unionization. The decision upholds a position heretofore held by the A. F. of L. and opposed by the C. I. O.

"If a closed shop agreement can be drawn from scratch, when employes are in no union at all," Judge Reis said, "the law evidently favors this and the employer and the chosen union may say to all who toil there, 'you must get into this union or get out of your job'."

Attorneys Tell Views.

The decision was at first hailed as momentous, but lawyers said reflection indicated that it would be of first importance chiefly in its power to weaken or strengthen one type of labor organization over another.

Two reasons were advanced by Attorney Leo Mann, counsel in numerous labor disputes here. One is that most employers have been careful not to interfere with their employés selecting "bargaining representatives of their own choosing," as is specified in the so-called national labor relations act, and the second is that lawyers believe as the state law is finally interpreted it will apply only to industries doing business exclusively within the state. They point out those in interstate business will be under the jurisdiction of the federal Wagner act.

Judge Reis' decision denied an application of the C. I. O. Shoe Workers' union to set aside a closed shop agreement between the Freeman Shoe company of Beloit and the shoe workers' A. F. of L. union.

The state labor board upheld the C. I. O. contention that the company had encouraged and abetted the A. F. of L. union but refused to vacate the contract because the A. F. of L. had a majority. Judge Reis held that this was of no consequence but upheld the position of the board.

Right to Call C. I. O. Radical.

"The employer has the right to call the C. I. O. radical and the A. F. of L. conservative in as vivid rhetoric as he can find," Judge Reis said. "Whether this is a blessing or tyranny, it is the law, and the legislature's shoulders must be broad enough to bear it."

Walter Bender, counsel in many labor cases, was loath to comment without seeing the complete dicision, but he thought there must be safeguards or the decision could be used as a subterfuge to encourage independent unions. "I don't see what it means when it says employers can deal with those belonging to no unions, which is apparently counter to other provisions of the law," Mr. Bender said.

Attorney Joseph Padway, general counsel for the Wisconsin Federation of Labor has argued that majority representation in a plant under the law does not prevent independent action by a minority.

Max Geline, general counsel for the C. I. O. in Wisconsin, said the decision would be appealed at once to the Supreme court.

I. E. Goldberg of counsel for the A. F. of L. said the decision upholds the position always maintained by the older labor organization.

FRENCH WOMAN ATHLETE HELD ON SLAYING CHARGE

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Violette Moriss, 44 year old former feminine shot-put champion of France and an all around woman athlete, was jailed tonight following a scuffle aboard her houseboat Lamouette, anchored in the Seine river, in which an unemployed mechanic, Joseph Lecam, 34, an ex-Foreign Legionnaire, was shot to death.

Mme. Moriss, a divorcée, is the granddaughter of a French general. She drove a United States ambulance on the French front during the world war and drew considerable publicity eight years ago when she had an "esthetic" surgeon remove her breasts in order to give her a more athletic outline. Recently she gained prominence as a cyclist and racing driver.

According to preliminary statements by Mme. Moriss the shooting occurred when Lecam boarded her houseboat brandishing a knife. She said she was forced to shoot in self-defense.

Where Steel Heiress Shot Mother

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

In this house atop a knoll near Youngstown, O., Mrs. Cordelia Campbell, daughter-in-law of the founder of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, was shot and killed. Her daughter, Louise, is held for questioning.

pendent and strictly a Youngstown industry. Civic leaders feared the big corporation might close the mills.

Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland, leader of the opposition to the merger, finally marshalled enough votes to prevent it and the company remained independent. At the time of this fight James A. Campbell revealed he had placed most of his fortune in trust for his children, among them Louis, father of Louise, and the Countess Marie. He merely retained voting rights to the stock.

Campbell Fortune Dwindles.

Following the death of the elder Campbell the family fortunes dwindled. The son Louis, who had been a lieutenant colonel and was crippled in the world war had been placed in the presidency of the Electric Alloy Steel company at Erie, Pa. This company eventually was merged. His companies and an investment brokerage office in New York in which he was interested proved poor investments. He died in 1935.

Following his death his widow and daughter, Louise, spent considerable time in travel and were little known socially in Youngstown. Some time ago they returned to the old brick mansion on Logan road, four miles north of Youngstown and took up residence in a part of the house. Count Ravelli and his wife, both of whom are artists, had been living there since the death of the countess' father.

GEM SMUGGLING SUSPECTS WILL FACE U. S. CHARGE

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The long duel between the government and the pert widow named as the head of the biggest gem smuggling ring in New York history will reach a showdown here Tuesday. The woman—who used to send taunting cables to customs agents before she sailed from Europe with shipments of illicit gems, challenging them to search her—is arriving on the Berengaria. She is ready to plead guilty and take her punishment, Assistant United States Attorney Charles T. Murphy revealed today.

The woman is Mrs. Gussie Firstenberg, president of the Eventov Diamond company of New York's Fifth avenue, according to Murphy. Returning with her to face the music, Murphy said, are Nat Lukin and Solomon Halper, two of her indicted aids.

With their surrender, the last American links of a high-pressure organization which in seven years slipped $13,000,000 in diamonds past customs agents will have been settled with by Uncle Sam. In slipping gems past the customs Mrs. Firstenberg often used alluring young women as carriers.

GEIGER ATTACK RECALLS OPINION OF JUSTICE RYAN

Jurist Denounced U. S. Acts Cited by Cummings.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin Supreme court, in a decision written 60 years ago by Justice Edward G. Ryan, noted legal authority, denounced the federal statute cited by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings in his report to the house judiciary committee in which he accused Federal Judge Ferdinand S. Geiger of obstructing justice. The Wisconsin decision, which is still considered sound law in this state, was handed down in what was known as the Rindskopf case in which the issue was the validity of a compromise under the federal statute, which authorizes federal officials to compromise criminal cases under the internal revenue law. The Wisconsin court described this as authorizing the compounding of a felony.

Judge Geiger referred to the Ryan decision in 1935 when he dismissed six criminal tax suits because a compromise had been reached in one of them. Cummings described Judge Geiger's action in the tax cases as "repudiating and disregarding the law," and based his complaint against the Milwaukee judge in part on that and in part on his recent dismissal of a grand jury because the department of justice had discussed settlement proposals with defendants' lawyers while the grand jury was still in session.

Decision Gets Rereading.

The ruling of Judge Ryan, whose opinions have been highly regarded by American courts for more than two generations, is being resurrected and reread in many Milwaukee law offices because of the attack on Judge Geiger.

"It may be that paltry officers of the revenue service may arrest the proceedings of the federal courts," Judge Ryan wrote more than half a century ago, "may loose the judicial hold upon extortioners, thieves, forgers, and perjurers; baffling justice and defying punishment in open court, upon the ground that the guilty have paid a price for the privilege of their guilt, a sordid substitute for benefit of clergy.

"It is said it was the policy of congress to treat offenses under the revenue law not strictly as crimes to be prosecuted and punished but rather as a system of penalties and forfeitures in aid of the collection of revenue, satisfied when that end is attained.

Attacks U. S. Statutes.

"It is humiliating to confess that such appears to be a fair construction of the statute; that federal revenue officers may exact from iniquity the wages of impunity; that the federal treasury may swallow the price of unpunished guilt; fraud, extortion, bribery, larceny, forgery, and perjury.

"The provision for compounding public offenses is essentially immoral; beyond all statutory power to purge it; tainting the whole statute."

MINNESOTA FINDS A VOICE.

Peter F. Herrly as foreman of a Hennepin county grand jury has told Minneapolis that it is a gangster ridden community, ruled by the gun and the blackjack, and that public officials are afraid to prosecute the criminals, who are labor racketeers, extortionists, and procurers of murder. There is only one signature to the statement and accusation. Mr. Herrly was alone. The other members of the grand jury which had been studying vice, gambling, and criminal acts of violence ran out on him. He says the entire jury at one time agreed with him. A spokesman for the other jurymen, a minister, says they did not, but they were overpowered by him and almost forced to accept his conclusions.

The notorious facts in the criminal record of Minneapolis in recent years speak for the foreman and leave the other jurymen to explain themselves. Mr. Herrly epitomized the record. Union labor has, as he says, been victimized by gangsters. The recent murder of Patrick J. Corcoran, veteran A. F. of L. leader, was evidence of that, a recent occurrence, and it is nothing unusual that the murderers have not been found.

Two newspaper editors, Howard Guilford and Walter Liggett, were killed because they exposed criminals and their official connections. Radical politicians and communists have tried to teach the people that lawlessness is a proper tactic to use against property. The authorities have indorsed this idea. Criminals with political support have made use of it. Labor has been put under the gunman and people who are injured have been taught to keep their mouths shut or it will be the worse for them.

Mr. Herrly has not kept his mouth shut. One man can do a great deal if he does it at the right time. New York seemed to be in a perfectly hopeless condition until Thomas Dewey was appointed prosecuting attorney. He has many of the worst of the racketeers in the penitentiary, he has exposed their political connections, and this racket ridden city sees its way out. The same thing happened in Cleveland when Elliott Ness went to work on the criminal rackets of that city. There is a chance for Minneapolis. The people will become ashamed of their conditions, tired of being harassed and injured by their politically protected criminals, and will drive the politicians out of office and the crooks into jail.

MR. DALL'S LIBEL SUIT.

The recent ruling of the appellate division in New York in favor of Curtis B. Dall and against the magazine Time was sound and should be welcomed by the editors of all reputable publications.

In its issue of April 23, 1934, Time told with characteristic straining for effect of the suicide in France of Enzo de Bones. He had killed himself in the presence of his wife and her mother, Mme. Gaston Doumergue, wife of the president of France. The French press, it seems, had given the incident scant attention. To emphasize the disparity between American and French treatment of such news items, Time substituted the name of Mr. Dall for M. de Bones, and told how he had killed himself in the presence of his wife [now Mrs. Boettiger] and her mother, Mrs. Roosevelt. Only after this shocking introduction the French incident was related and the treatment it had received in the French press was discussed.

Mr. Dall sued for $250,000, alleging he had been libeled. A jury decided in favor of the magazine. Judge Bernard Sheintag, who presided over the trial, set aside the verdict because, he said, Mr. Dall had made a clear showing of libel. The magazine appealed and Judge Sheintag's action has now been upheld by the higher court. Accordingly, the case goes back to the trial courts where a jury is to fix the amount of the damages.

The decision offers no impediment to the publication of bright, readable, incisive writing. It does stand as a warning that serious trouble awaits those publishers who would rather be smart than decent. Publishers who build circulation by purveying gossip generally find themselves before long under pressure to present more and more of their material in a gossipy, malicious style if they are to retain the readers they have attracted. The law has now placed the only kind of check which is likely to be immediately effective upon publishers of that sort. Conscientious editors may rejoice that a type of writing which degrades public taste has been outlawed. A threat to the literary standards of better publications has been removed.

THE OLD PRIZE RING.

The death of Jake Kilrain must have astonished a good many old timers who would have been certain before they read of it that he'd been dead for ages. He seemed to belong to the legendary era of the ring, when pugilism was a surreptitious sport, nearly always a fugitive from the law and, although quite as much a topic of conversation among the men then as now, was regarded by the women as an unspeakably brutal and degrading occupation. And it probably was.

John L. Sullivan in his heyday managed to be a national hero and at the same time a public scandal, collecting about him a legend of primitive brutality which was no doubt half fiction or ninety per cent falsehood. Many old timers who now learn that Kilrain lived until the other day can remember their excitement as boys when they read of the training for the great fight which might take the crown away from the great John L. Many of them hoped it would. That was to come later when the stripling Corbett slapped the hero down and nearly ruined half the big town and small town sports of the country who were sure that nothing less than a falling mountain could ever dispose of the strong boy of Boston.

The days of Kilrain and Sullivan were very close to the old times and practices of boxing in England, when wild young noblemen had fighters almost as they might have gamecocks, carried them along with the coachman, the footman, and the valet, and used them for betting purposes. It may not have been altogether the milk fund which made the reformation, but we know now that the leading pugilists are prominent citizens, a change which probably dates back to Gentleman Jim Corbett and has been aided by the fact that nothing that can draw a million dollar gate is to be treated with anything except respect.

REPRESENTATIVES NOT OF THEIR OWN CHOOSING.

An interesting question of civil right is now in the federal Court of Appeals in Philadelphia. In November an election was held by employés of the Westinghouse Air Brake company of Williamsburg, Pa., to determine under the Wagner act what organization should represent the employés of the corporation. Two organizations sought the privilege, one the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America, a C. I. O. affiliate; the other the United Employés' association, an independent organization. The National Labor board certified the former. If the C. I. O. has paid for the labor board it seems to be getting its results.

From this certification the independent association has appealed to the courts. Their counsel maintains the labor board ruled that only those employed by the company on June 16 last were entitled to vote. He asserts that the majority of the employés have entered the employ of the company since that date and the board ruling deprived them of the vote; in other words, of the right of free expression.

The labor board contends that no appeal lies upon the certification, as it did not involve a question of unfair labor practice. Counsel for the independent association say that if no appeal can be had from an order of certification "regional attorneys for the board are going to favor any union they want to."

Nonpartisans will find the view of the independent association more than plausible. If workers cannot appeal from a decision which indubitably deprives them of their right to choose their own bargaining agency and imposes another agency, the tall talk of the administration about the right of the worker to collective bargaining by "representatives of his own choosing" is just about worth a plugged nickel. Certainly it puts the right of free expression in the discard. If this does not present an issue for the court, indeed for the Supreme court, what can be?

THE BLUFF THAT WON.

Gen. Pietro Badoglio was called to the Palazzo Venezio by Mussolini on Nov. 15, 1935, and told that he was to assume the high command in Ethiopia, taking over the work from the older soldier, De Bono, who if he had not bogged down was not getting the speed necessary. There was, and this is the interesting thing, need for speed.

Badoglio has written a book on his campaign, reluctantly, he says, and overcoming scruples against it only because he wanted to make his contribution to a remarkable achievement of Fascist Italy under the spiritual inspiration of the Duce.

Mussolini wrote a foreword for the work of his general and it is of especial interest at the present moment. He explains that Italy was not permitted because of certain significant conditions to conduct a colonial war along the ordinary lines. It must be a war on the continental scale into which all resources available must be thrown because time would be the deciding element.

Italy had not only to fight on the plateaus of Ethiopia, says Mussolini, "but also on two other fronts—the political and the economic—in consequence of the sanctions decided upon and applied, for the first time and against Italy alone, by the league of nations—which latter, if the fortunes of war had not been favorable to the Italian arms, probably would have gone on to apply more drastic measures, as indeed was desired, both openly and covertly, in many league circles. The time factor was therefore a deciding element."

Embargoes had been applied by the league, but they were not tight. They threatened, but they did not accomplish their purpose. There was a possibility and Mussolini in his foreword calls it a "terrible possibility" that the more drastic measures would be used and would succeed. The Duce called on Badoglio to rescue him with a quick war. Apparently while he was threatening Great Britain in the Mediterranean he realized that he was chancing enormous risks.

The league did not impose the really strangling embargoes upon him because it couldn't. His magnificent bluff was successful. The great powers in the league were timid. Although it was the splendid opportunity to demonstrate that they could coerce an erring member, the weakness of the collective scheme was its own undoing.

The league could not use its weapons because of divergent interests, suspicions, fears, lack of common purpose, of confidence and dependability. Mussolini took a chance and won. The league has been negligible ever since. The blunder was in placing itself where it could only reveal its futility. Other dictators took immediate notice. Japan did not need any greater encouragement.

FIRST CASUALTY.

[Danville (Ill.) Commercial-News.]

Truth, says an article in the Epworth Herald, is the first casualty of war.

How true this is!

The light that once guided the steps of mankind through uncertainties and doubts is hidden under a bushel, there to stay until the god of war is through with us.

We can recall the stories of atrocities perpetrated by Germany in the world war, only to learn later that we were the victims of untruths.

We can avoid becoming puppets by insisting on the truth at all times and at all costs, and by making untruths the first casualty of either war or peace.

IF YOU CLOSE YOUR EYES so you won't see the drum major miss the baton he tosses into the air you'll be glad to learn that the odds against him are negligible. Two dozen youngsters and several policemen who are just learning to be drum majors in the 122d armory on Sunday afternoon can all throw their batons into the air at once and catch them. We went up to this somewhat unusual school, only to find out that, despite a great many inspiring copy book maxims, keeping your nose to the grindstone never will make a baton twirler of you. Hard work helps, but you'd better keep on at something else unless you have natural ability. Age isn't so important, says Maj. C. W. Boothe, the instructor; some of his pupils are no more than 8. He can turn out a capable baton twirler in six months, but it takes years to make one truly expert. Tossing the baton into the air and catching it isn't the hardest of tricks. As a matter of fact, the twirler always has a second chance before the baton hits the ground, if he misses the first time. Men throw the baton 85 feet high; women rarely more than 65. The tricks all have odd names, like the grapevine (passing the stick between all the fingers), Little Joe, the flam, the spiral, the wagon wheel, and the slide-out. Maj. Booth has 187 in his répertoire. Twirling the flaming baton's spectacular, but not so hard or so dangerous as it seems. If the baton's made right you can't get burned at all. The twirlers usually make their own for this performance, wrapping the ends with cotton sash cords soaked in a mixture of coal oil and gasoline.

TAVERN CLUB crossword puzzle fans have discovered the English ones. Much trickier, they say, because the English throw in sly witticisms that few but Britishers can get. . . . If there are five persons in a car held up by a freight train, the psychologists say, three of them will be counting the cars. . . . Those fellows who can remember the car serial numbers of an entire train still make a living with memory demonstrations in small towns.

CHRISTMAS ISN'T OVER for the postman. Many families are so busy before Christmas that they wait until afterward to give him a present. He'll still be getting envelopes with a dollar or two in them when New Year's comes. Chicagoans gave their postmen more presents up to Christmas day than last year, but the cash ones were smaller. Cigars and cigarets, though, were often more expensive.

UNSENT CHRISTMAS LETTER.

This joyous Christmas season
I'll join the laughing throngs,
And tap my high heeled slippers
To modern Christmas songs.

And no one will discover

My heart is absent, seeking you

SUAVITY is largely acquired. Harry Richman got his start with a song about the chewing gum losing its flavor on the bedpost overnight. William Powell played in slapstick comedies before he became the film sophisticate. They tell it, though. Most of the stars have no sense of humor about the part of their past the press agents never mention.

A CENTURY PASSES.

It has been almost a hundred years now since Leonidas Virgil Badger set about making for his grandchildren a doll house modeled after the old Badger family home that was built in New England in 1690. He fashioned miniature furniture for every room, and chose his wall paper with care. On his dining table he put plates the size of a quarter, and carved a wooden bun for each. The children for whom he made it have all grown up now, but his house—experts say it's the more interesting because he got some of his proportions wrong—is in the Christmas display at the Chicago Historical society.

WIG SHOPS are looked upon by those who have all their hair as rather strange places where furtive strangers duck in and sit behind screens making purchases. But there are several tucked away in the downtown district where all sorts of people who don't seem to be bald-headed may be seen coming and going every day. Much of the wigmakers' business is with the theatrical profession. Gentlemen who need toupees aren't silly about it anyway in this modern age.

TANNIC ACID DISCOURAGING TO COLDS.

As a rule, I am "agin" putting things—even medicines—into the nose, throat, or ears. But during the cold season the air passages are likely to become dry and a small bit of white vaseline will serve as an acceptable lubricant. This I have recommended for many years.

The search for an antiseptic or coating which will not damage the cells of the nose and throat has been a long one and the ideal chemical has not as yet been discovered. Nevertheless, a number of compounds are utilized. Both common salt and sodium bicarbonate are helpful when employed for irrigating purposes and one that contains chlorine in low concentration is quite popular.

We now are in the season when every one is hopeful of escaping a cold and numerous preventive measures are adopted. Among these tannic acid is strongly urged by some enthusiasts. It is contended that it will serve to check the admission of bacterial toxins, viruses, or of any material that may irritate the delicate lining cells. In fact, it has been shown that the absorption of certain substances to which individuals are allergic [sensitive] may be stopped by coating the nasal pathways with a ½ per cent solution of the acid. Carefully conducted experiments have demonstrated that once the lining membrane has been duly tanned, colored dyes cannot make their way into the blood or lymph channels. If this is the case why is it not possible to interdict the entrance into the body of disease producing microbes?

Some of us are prone to sneeze on the slightest provocation. We recognize morning, noon, and night performances, and to many the habit proves not only embarrassing but a definite social handicap. The cause may not lie in a bacterial type of infection, but in some element that disturbs the mucous lining severely enough to bring on the reflex explosion. Here a water solution of tannic acid [½ per cent], sprayed into the nostrils three or four times daily for a week, will prove most salutary. In fact, some authorities report comfort from this method that cannot be obtained with equal facility under any other plan.

A case of great oversensitivity of the nasal mucous membrane was reported in a woman of 48. Sneezing had become so persistent and was brought on by so many different factors—that is, whenever she was in the vicinity of wool, cotton, silk, house dust, etc.—that something had to be done. Avoiding the offending items seemed to be of little value. Neither did much improvement follow an attempt to build immunity by means of vaccines.

Tannic acid finally was resorted to with no harmful symptoms—and with complete relief. She was provided with an ordinary nasal atomizer and instructed to use the spray under gentle pressure two or three times each day. Within a week all annoyance vanished and she is now enjoying the first restful experience of several winters. Furthermore, not a single so-called cold has made its appearance.

It should be emphasized, however, that tannin will not prove universally beneficial. Even a low dilution is unsuitable to some, while others find the after effects disagreeable with some loss of the sense of smell. If one can withstand a mild sort of anoyance for twenty-four hours or so, the final outcome may be well worth while.

Based upon the work of numerous investigators it has been found that the procedure is helpful in preventing colds. Sometimes the powder [tannic acid] is mixed with vaseline, glycerine, or liquid petroleum and a drop or two placed in each nostril daily. While this device has not been employed with a sufficiently large number of individuals to warant sweeping conclusions, nevertheless preliminary observations would indicate that these persons suffer from less frequent and less serious colds.

SOFTENS MEAT FIBERS.

E. M. writes: Does putting vinegar on meat toughen it or make it more tender? Does its use disturb the digestion?

REPLY.

In addition to being a condiment, vinegar has the effect of softening the fibers of tough meat as well as the cellulose of green vegetables. Although the acetic acid which vinegar contains ultimately is oxidized in the body with the production of carbon dioxide and water, there is reason to believe that it has an unfavorable influence on gout, and may even precipitate an attack if freely indulged in. Ordinarily, it is harmless.

EXAMINATION ADVISED.

W. M. writes: My 18 year old daughter has a peculiar blemish on her face. It was very small when it started and is now the size of a nickel. It is grayish in color and a little sunken. A skin specialist could not determine the cause. She used to have a fair skin but now it is olive.

REPLY.

Cutaneous disorders are sometimes caused by systemic disease. Have a careful examination made for an organic cause.

PROPERTY TITLE.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband and I paid up our house with a building loan association which had the mortgage. They gave us a release deed.

1. The people who had the property bought it from a sister and brother.
2. Their mother died without a will. The property was in Probate court when [3] she bought it from sister and brother.

What I would like to know is what would be the [4] original deed [5] cost from the title company?

6. Do we have a clear title? M. M.

1. We assume that you mean the people from whom you bought.
2. We assume that it originally belonged to the mother.
3. We assume that the three are the only heirs.
4. We do not understand what you mean by the "original deed."
5. Ask the title company.
6. It is nearly always advisable for a purchaser of real estate to employ an attorney throughout, and we advise you to employ one now.

WHERE SHALL AMERICA STAND?

River Forest, Ill., Dec. 22.—The writer read your editorial of Dec. 22, "Where Shall America Stand?"

It is hard to believe you are against the administration's recent stand relative to Japan sinking our ships. We quite agree with you that England and France should have paid their war debts, as I am a firm believer in taking care of all obligations. At the same time you must consider that this country profited very materially, and to the extent of being able to cut down our national debt after the war.

I also feel that this country should stand shoulder to shoulder with Great Britain and France, also other democratic countries, as certainly democracy is worth fighting for. Since man came on this earth he has had to fight for existence, and we have our economic system to look after, since this country, with other countries, signed the nine power treaty giving us equal rights with others to trade in Japan.

I have two sons who contend they would not fight except for the defense of the United States, but after the Panay incident they were up in arms and perfectly in accord with the administration, as they do not believe we should withdraw our ships from Chinese territory. Their decision pleased me very much, as they are both of age, and when a youth feels this way and is willing to fight for the honor of his country, they are generally the ones who win a war.

JOHN HANSEN.

FIRE EATER.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—The fact that the nine-power conference disgracefully failed to order Japan to cease her outlawry in China does not relieve the United States from further responsibility in the matter.

Since the nine-power treaty is a part of the supreme law of our country [constitution, article 6, section 1:2], and since the Japanese outlaws are deliberately and defiantly breaking a supreme law of our country and thereby are committing horrible atrocities against American citizens and the people of China, President Roosevelt, as the chief executive of the laws of the United States, regardless of "satisfaction" over the Panay incident, should send an unqualified demand to the emperor of Japan to withdraw at once his outlaw gangs from China, with the distinct and express understanding that the emperor's refusal means that President Roosevelt will give orders to the American navy: to smash the Japanese blockade of China and to convey abundant food and military supplies to China to enable the Chinese people to drive the Japanese outlaws from the soil of China.

This action should be taken with the distinct understanding with all nations that such action shall not underwrite the imperial policy of any nation with respect to China, leaving the Chinese people entirely free to formulate their own policies with respect to every nation on the face of the earth.

This would not be at all a war against Japan, and thus would not require a declaration of war by congress; it would be only the rightful exercise of the police power given to the President of the United States, by the constitution of the United States and by Almighty God, to enforce the just laws of the United States. Our self-respect as a nation demands that this action be taken at once.

This letter is my answer to the very able and realistic Tribune editorial, "Where Shall America Stand?"

ERNEST BRADSHAW.

GERMAN GENIUS.

Anchor, Ill., Dec. 23.—Your editorial on Ludendorff again reminds me of the unfair attitude The Tribune has taken of everything that is German. The editor seems to think all Germans are half nuts, but you feed constantly on Beethoven, Bach, Brahms, Schubert, Schumann, Wolf, Strauss, Reger, etc.—who certainly were exponents of the German genius. That the Germans have also a military genius is beyond question and no Tribune editor will be able to question that. Ludendorff was a genius!

THE REV. M. SCHERF.

WE OCCASIONALLY THINK SO.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 22.—In the last six years we have seen depression, oppression, recession, special session, procession away from Washington.

Before the beginning of the regular session wouldn't it be encouraging if there were to be a confession of error and an accession of common sense and common honesty to the seat of government?

AS the neighborhood squirrel in the 5700 block on Woodlawn avenue was eating his morning cookie on the fence near the back steps of one of his favorite families the milkman came along and leaned over to get some empty bottles. Thinking his bent back a nice landing place the squirrel jumped down onto it, ran up to his neck, snatched the pencil that was behind his ear, and scurried up the nearest tree. He tried unsuccessfully to nibble it. Finding it was of no use to him the squirrel politely dropped the pencil down to the milkman, by this time standing beneath the tree, and the milkman then was able to resume his rounds. . . . The house where all this happened was that of Edgar J. Goodspeed of the University of Chicago.

* *

WE like to report the various kinds of things that go on. Just last week, when you'd think everybody was busy with Christmas preparations, three persons stood across from the Michigan Boulevard building staring at the structure. Then they crossed over, entered it and obtained an audience with Monro MacCloskey, the building manager. They were shown in, two men and a woman.

"We are three strangers," the spokesman said. "We have been standing across the street for the last twenty minutes speculating as to the height of your building. Would you mind telling us which made the best guess?"

The building manager got into the spirit of the thing. He wrote down the correct figure, but before he showed the visitors what it was asked to hear their estimates. The building is 250 feet high. The guesses ranged from 150 to 250. The one who guessed the poorest had to buy dinner.

* *

THE bus driver collected fares, answered questions, opened and shut the door, watched trafic signals, made change, called out the streets, admonished the Christmas shoppers to step toward the rear, and called out information as to the bus' route. A fat man in a fur overcoat eyed him observantly and appreciatively, then asked:

"Why don't you drive another bus, too?"

Keep Sparkle in Your Eye, Because the Men Admire It

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Asking one of the popular young screen and radio stars what was the first thing about a woman he noticed, without a moment's hesitation he answered "her eyes." He said it made no difference whether they be olack, green, brown, blue, or gray, but they must be alive. It is their aliveness, their sparkle that lends allure. So you'd better keep the sparkle in your eyes, and that means you can't neglect them. They need a certain amount of daily care if they are to retain their youthful gleam and brilliance. Tired, strained eyes are aged in appearance.

Treat them to an eye bath each day, and when you find they are unusually tired, apply compresses of cotton which have been dipped in a boracic acid solution, or hot water to which a little salt has been added. Either will be found delightfully refreshing.

Rest is important. That doesn't mean you must spend most of your time sleeping when you want to rest the eyes. The more the eye muscles are exercised the stronger they become, provided they are used judiciously. You may read for hours without straining the eyes if you train them to relax. When you read, look away from the page from time to time. Do this quickly, just for a second. Then blink the eyes to relieve strain. Blinking may be indulged in not only while you read, but when you go to the movies, to the theater, or when you find your eyes are focussed on a particular object or scene for any length of time.

Brows and lashes must come in for their share of attention, too. There are tiny brushes with which to brush brows and lashes into shape. Any stray hairs in the brows should be tweezed, for unruly brows can lend no allure to the eye picture. Brows must be trim and neat, nicely arched. If either the brows or lashes is scant, there are creams to promote their growth, and there always is the homely old remedy, castor oil, which proves its worth when applied to the lashes. Brows or lashes so fair they are characterless may be improved by the application of mascara or the use of an eyebrow pencil, but take care not to apply either too generously.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Some day I am going to turn detective and try to run down the culprits in bridge crimes. For years certain fallacious theories, mysteriously promulgated, have impeded the progress of thousands of players. One of these "theories" is that when North, let us say, opens the bidding with one club, South, his partner, requires a trick and a half to show a new suit. I think that my writing has done much to eliminate this ridiculous principle, but there is another fallacy very similar in nature that I have found harder to uproot. Question No. 38 of the recent examination was aimed directly at that fallacy. This question was:

Both sides vulnerable. You are South, the dealer, and hold:

♠— ♥ A K 10 8 4 ♦ K J 10 7 ♣ J 9 4 3

The bidding proceeds:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass

What call do you make now?

Hundreds of readers answered that they would rebid the hearts, going on to explain that they could not bid two diamonds because that would be showing too much strength. Obviously, there is a widespread misconception on this point. In fact, I have had personal contact with many players who insist that "to change the suit shows additional values." This is just one more evidence of the mysterious love that exists for artificiality. Why should changing the suit, without increasing the contract, show additional value? In the above hand South must bid over his partner's spade response. One no trump is out of the question, because of the entire lack of fit. South's choice, then, is clearly between two hearts and two diamonds. Why should he withhold information about the presence of another biddable suit in his hand? Is it not possible, if not probable, that North holds a singleton heart and three or four diamonds? In that case a two heart rebid by South will not even explore the proper final contract.

Players will do well to get over the idea that the mere showing of a new suit [unless a higher ranking suit which automatically may force the bidding higher] has any special, or artificial meaning.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	2 no trump	Pass	Pass
Pass

West, rather than guess at a new suit, opened the eight of hearts. Declarer's queen won and the club king was laid down. East permitted this to hold and, when a low club followed to the jack, East again ducked, afraid that declarer had three clubs. Having brought home two club tricks declarer conceded the diamond ace and claimed his contract.

Knowledge of a certain valuable signal on the parts of East and West would have held declarer to seven tricks, even after the opening lead. With an entryless dummy, one defender must realize that the other needs guidance as to the precise round on which to accept his stopper in dummy's long suit. Thus experts use a signal for this situation as follows: West, by playing a low club on the king and a higher club on the lead toward dummy, tells East specifically that he [West] started with three clubs. Had West held only a doubleton he should play high-low, warning East to hold up his ace until the third round.

Two Colored Singers Take Roles in 'Aida'

BY CECIL SMITH.

An event without parallel in grand opera in America took place at the Civic Opera house last night when two colored singers, La Julia Rhea and William Franklin, sang the Ethiopian rôles of Aïda and Amonasro in a special performance of "Aïda." The opera was given for the benefit of the children's ward of the Provident hospital.

The nearest approach to this attempt at a proper racial allocation of these rôles occurred in New York a few seasons ago, when Abbie Williams, last seen in Chicago in the play "Stevedore," sang the rôle of Aïda.

Both singers last night won a goodly success and were warmly applauded. Neither artist had ever before sung in a full length opera performance. Miss Rhea's career began when she won the notice of Maj. Bowes, and was engaged to travel about the country with one of his first "amateur" units. Mr. Franklin's entry upon the vocal field is even more recent, for he was "discovered" at the Sherwood Music school commencement last June. He had previously been a trombonist in Earl Hines' band.

In both instances large voices of excellent quality proved to be the chief justification for the young singers' operatic aspirations. They sang diligently and with a good deal of emotional force, but neither one has developed a proper vocal style through which to channel and discipline this emotion.

The remaining parts were taken by Ruth Ford [Amneris], John Pane-Gasser [Radames], Walter Stafford [Ramfis], Maryum Horn [the Priestess], Maurice Sciapio [the King], and Giuseppe Cavadore [the Messenger]. The prevailing vocal standard was not high. Dino Bigalli conducted, and Bettina Rosay and Walter Camryn appeared with the ballet.

If the old stage setting for the triumphal scene is to be used in popular priced performances of "Aïda," somebody should straighten the obelisk in the background.

BALLET RUSSE

The cool, placid classical ballet in white tarlatan, "Les Sylphides," was danced for the first time this season by the Ballet Russe at yesterday's matinée in the Auditorium theater. The performance was competently graceful without quite achieving at all times the complete fragility that can make "Les Sylphides" a work of unique loveliness. Alexandra Danilova and Tatiana Riabouchinska evoked ripples of approval from the audience. Anna Leontieva, to whose lot the first waltz fell, seemed less secure and dainty in her solo dance than in the finale, where she danced in company with Danilova and Riabouchinska. Roman Jasinsky, in the only male part, gave further evidence that he is, along with Paul Petroff, the most lyrical of the younger male dancers.

"Le Coq d'Or" was the climax of the afternoon. Charles Collins can set me right if I am wrong, but I feel safe in calling this dazzling new ballet the most brilliant and exciting stage production of the season. And the musical score is not its least interesting feature. This late work of Rimsky-Korsakoff, never well known in Chicago, makes use of a striking amount of dissonant harmony without sacrificing the fabulous orchestral glitter of such earlier compositions as "Scheherazade" and the Spanish Caprice.

For Your Hours at Home

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRON.

While you're chasing the dust from the corners you might as well be pretty as a picture. There's no excuse these days for appearing dowdy during your hours at home. So many lovely house frocks and dainty aprons to protect your dresses are being offered these days, and the pattern suggested today is quite the loveliest we've seen in a long time.

This is a simple garment to sew and a comfortable one to wear. There are only two buttons to fasten. The shoulder straps are designed to "stay put," and the waistline, with its clever gathers, fits the figure snugly. Rickrack braid is the standard trimming if you use a plain color, but if you select a print there is no need to use the braid. Bias binding will be sufficient trimming.

Two capacious pockets are provided for in the pattern. They may be plain or adorned with an applique. Embroidery pattern No. E-700 offers the "big apple," a smart and colorful applique. This design costs ten cents extra.

Style No. 2032 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material, with 7¾ yards of binding or braid.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There are women who love fine soaps as other women love jewels. We're in the first group. It makes us feel rich and pampered to have bland, exquisitely perfumed soaps lying within reach.

And right now we're feeling like a millionairess just because some true floral soaps came our way a few days before Christmas. These are cold cream soaps, superfatted to remove every trace of the harshness that dry skinned women find so trying, especially in cold weather. But what excites us particularly is the fragrance. Never, in our experience, have we known soaps so perfectly perfumed.

There is a lemon verbena that is simply divine. To use it is to put on rose colored glasses. At least we get that much of a lift out of it! Then there is a true geranium—one of the most unusual of fragrances and one of the most interesting. This has just that "cinammony" note you find in the little red flowers that are such cheery highlights in a dull world.

We had one of our stooges try out the soap in the lilac perfume. She's one who ordinarily doesn't care for lilac "off the bush" but this won her undying admiration. She reports that it's like having a heavily laden lilac bush in the home and that the luscious scent perfumes the rooms.

There are a flock of other fragrances, all of them lovely. The house that makes these superfatted soaps has done a remarkable job of capturing fragrances—but without belittling we can say it's no wonder. They're perfume experts and flower experts!

These soaps are in two sizes, a six ounce cake for the bath and a three ounce size for toilet use.

Miss Eleanor Everett to Wed London Writer

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT a tea yesterday afternoon in the Windemere East, where they are living this winter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren Everett announced the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Alan W. Watts of London, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence W. Watts of Rowan Tree Cottage, Chislehurst, Kent, England.

Miss Everett, who has been studying piano with George Woodhouse in London this winter, and her fiancé both were present to receive the good wishes of about 100 family friends. Mr. Watts, who is visiting the United States for the first time, accompanied his fiancée here from London, arriving in New York last week on the Bremen. They are returning to England on Jan. 4. The wedding will take place in London next day.

Just a year ago, on Dec. 30, her 18th birthday, Miss Everett met all of her family's friends at an informal debut tea in the Everett home in Hinsdale. At that time she had just spent a year in Japan with Mrs. Everett, after finishing her education at the Girls' Latin school and Dobbs Ferry. It was while she and her mother were in England last May, after the coronation, that Mr. Watts and Miss Everett met.

Mr. Watts is a journalist and author, and shares an interest in the far east in common with Mrs. Everett. Although only 22 years old, Mr. Watts already has had published two books dealing with the culture and philosophy of religion in the far east. "The Spirit of Zen, a Way of Life, Work and Art in the Far East" and "The Legacy of Asia and Western Man." He was educated at King's school, Canterbury, Kent, the oldest public school in England.

Mary Edith Carroll Engaged to New Yorker.

Of interest here is the announcement yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Carroll of New York, formerly of Chicago, of the engagement of their daughter, Mary Edith, to Paul L. Grambs, son of Mrs. Frank G. Grambs and the late Mr. Grambs of Bismarck, N. D.

Miss Carroll, whose brother, Walter C. Carroll Jr., and his wife are living here, attended Westover and made her debut here in 1928. She was a member of the Chicago Junior league, later transferring to the league at Pittsburgh when the Carroll family moved there about ten years ago. Mr. Grambs is a graduate of Lafayette university and is in business in New York, where he and Miss Carroll will make their home following their wedding next spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Reid of 4810 Ellis avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Robert Ingersoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Ingersoll of Winnetka. Miss Reid is a graduate of the Faulkner School for Girls and of Pine Manor Junior college and of Smith college. She is an active member of the Service club. Mr. Ingersoll is a graduate of Andover and of Yale university.

Shirley Ross Betrothed to Fuller Dean.

Also of interest this morning is the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Plairfair Ross of Kenilworth of the engagement of their daughter, Shirley, to Fuller Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Randall Dean of Winnetka. Miss Ross is a graduate of Mount Vernon seminary in Washington, D. C., and has studied piano at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago. Mr. Dean is a graduate of Yale university and of the Yale School of Architecture.

George A. Bates and his bride of today, Miss Constance White, will go on their wedding trip to Miami for New Year's Eve, and then will fly to Jamaica, to be away four or five weeks. The wedding of the beautiful younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. White to the younger son of Mrs. Adelmer M. Bates is at 8:30 o'clock tonight in St. Chrysostom's church, with a reception following in Good Morning!

This is one of those gratifying "different" and suspenseful spy pictures that the British have a knack for making. It is not as admirable, perhaps, as "The 39 Steps," but it holds its own in comparison with that and other like films from the English studios.

The story is timed in world war days. Its backgrounds are Paris, neutral Sweden, and the high seas. Its principal characters are a French girl spy who uses her chic dress shop as a blind for her maneuvers and claims Swiss heritage, and a wealthy and apparently blasé man of the world who comes to Stockholm, avowedly to live in quiet. You are later to learn that he is a supposed deserter from the German army and, later, that he is—well—never mind—I mustn't spoil suspense for you. Despite the effort of local authorities to prevent such goings on, these two—and other mysterious personages—employ Stockholm as base of activities.

Vivien Leigh is one of the most exquisitely beautiful creaures I have seen on or off a screen. And HOW the lovely thing can act! Her work is sure, intuitive, provocative. . . . Conrad Veidt gives a masterly performance as the strange Von Marwitz. . . . Other players are all to the good and so was direction—for the most part.

The film is excellently staged and dialoged. . . . Sound could have been better. However, just as is—"Dark Journey" is decidedly a cinema to make mental note of.

See you tomorrow.

Prints Bait Trap for That Gift Check!

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Christmas checks have a decided inflammable quality. The sooner they go to town, the safer the pockets and fingers. With plenty of bright new prints available, either made up into dresses or rolled on the bolt, the spending is easy. Snappy, gay and young are the daytime dresses destined for holiday and January wear under fur coats or fur trimmed coats.

All the sleeves are elbow length or shorter, perkily sharp over the shoulderlines. The waistlines are neat and small, and the yardage goes to the skirt. Plaits, front fullness, circular flares and the like make them irresistible finds and the best pick-ups for a jaded winter wardrobe. The colors are good lusty contrasts of bold effective tones, with tropic vegetation and the softer paisley patterns being favorites.

Other temptations in the shops are high colored crêpe or soft jersey hats that resemble crowns. These are very moderately priced and smart headlines for women who are either tall or not so tall. Dark colors are also available.

You can easily spend your entire weekly allowance in the departments that feature bolts of new prints, in cottons or silks. Some of the best looking materials of the year are those unwrapped at this time, for all sorts of daring new ideas are shown. There are exciting color combinations, unusual new printed designs, and tricky textures in the smart linens that are out for the benefit of the southbound vacationists or those farsighted shoppers who grab the newest arrivals now and sew later. If you make your own clothes, this season of the year is a stitcher's dream of plenty for every yard of silk, linen and cotton is new, crisp and colorful.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 25.—If Lloyds of London will give him 25 to 1, friends of John Montague will raise a pool of $5,000 to bet on him to win the British amateur.... "Monty" will take the name of Montague legally on Jan. 6, get married the following week, and then depart for Caliente to get himself in shape for championship golf. . . . I played with him on Friday; he shot a 68. . . . The Dan Toppings [Arline Judge] expect Sir Stork the last week in January. . . . Warner's will try to make a Clara Bow type of Mary Maguire, as a result of the tremendous publicity received by the Australian lass. . . . Nelson Eddy and Inez Seabury are an item. . . . Paramount won't permit Merwyn Le Roy to use "Food for Scandal" as a title for the Lombard-Gravet picture. . . . They made one with the same tag years ago. . . . Help! Help! In listing my opinion of the best pictures of 1937, I forgot Robert Montgomery's "Night Must Fall," and the letter writers are up in arms. . . . Just wanted to see if you were paying attention to the column.

Mary Maguire, Another "It" Girl?

The fans, according to their letters, believe Spencer Tracy should get the academy award for his "Captain Courageous," and Barbara Stanwyck for "Stella Dallas." . . . Joe Kinsky, district manager of the Tristates Theater corporation, writing from Davenport, Ia., thoughtfully cautions the Hollywood producers against using the academy awards as a production guide for 1938. "More often than not," this veteran exhibitor points out, "the pictures picked as the academy's best are actually the poorest box office attractions of the year. As it is now, too many producers and directors, shooting at academy awards, aim at making a 'critics' picture.' The result is a 'Parnell' or a 'Conquest' or a 'Maid of Salem' that is not popular with the public."

"Do not misunderstand me," continues Kinsky. "I don't say that pictures like 'Zola' or 'The Good Earth' should not be produced. They should be to keep the standards of motion pictures at a higher level and raise the audience level of discrimination. But I do say that our audiences are prepared to consume only two or three such pictures a year. If Hollywood producers will follow this line of thought and make a minimum of heavy, historical dramas and aim the rest of their program at down-to-earth entertainment, I think that they, along with the theaters, will find themselves more successful. I mention this box office angle because our theaters must depend upon SUCCESSFUL pictures so that exhibitors can carry artistic triumphs like 'Conquest' that are magnificent and worthwhile culturally, but undisputed flops so far as the public is concerned."

I think fans will agree that Kinsky has expressed a thought they've had in mind for a long time.

Well, it was a great day. . . . Wires, cards, long distance calls and in between, trimming the tree. . . . Hy Gardner and the Broadway crowd compressed their wishes in or on a record and as the disc spun, I heard the voices of Jay C. Flippen, Dave Vine, Hal and Ruth Le Roy, Nick Long, Henny Youngman, Bobbie Feldman and a crowd of other Broadwayites. . . . It was absolutely thrilling, because this is the one day of the year when you feel a long, long way from home. . . . The Shirley Temple card was cutest; Shirley in a poke bonnet, hymn book in hand, singing Christmas carols against the frosted background of a wreath covered win-

RUN!

By Patricia Wentworth

[Copyright: 1937: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.]

SYNOPSIS.

Delivering a new car to a customer James Elliot, lost in the fog, finds himself on some one's estate. Groping his way to the dark house, he stumbles over a bicycle. The front door is ajar. Entering, his flashlight reveals a girl, who commands him to "Run!" A shot whistles after them as they flee to hide in the hayloft. The girl tells James she was searching for a necklace her dying Aunt Clementa had told her was hidden in the house, called Rere place. The girl vanishes before James can learn more. At his cousin Daphne's party James meets the girl. She is Sally West, the sister of his college chum, Jocko West. She hints of danger to him because of what he saw—her brother, and herself. Jackson, a rival salesman, takes credit for driving the car the night of the fog and is run over on the road and killed. Sally is in fear of Ambrose Sylvester, the novelist, who is her guardian and was her aunt's trustee; also his wife, Hildegarde, and the latter's cousin, Henri Niemeyer, who wants to marry Sally. Jocko, after receiving a letter from his dying aunt, was pushed off a cliff. After the accident the letter is missing and Jocko cannot remember its contents. The money Sally's aunt left to Jocko comes next to her, and if she dies, to Ambrose. Sally and James fall in love, but she tells him it is too dangerous for them to meet. Returning home one night James barely escapes death from falling scaffolding.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

ODD HAPPENINGS.

Nothing more happened. James got in safely, and ate a simple meal of fried eggs and bacon, and toasted cheese. All the time that he was frying and toasting, and eating his supper, and washing up the supper things he was grimly determined to have it out with the builder's foreman in the morning. He was a little red-haired man with a peppery temper, and there was pretty sure to be a sizable row. James warmed to the thought of it.

He rose next morning full of pleasurable anticipation, but he had no sooner emerged upon the cobbled court of the Mews than he received a shock. Last night he had had to duck under the scaffolding to reach his front door, but this morning the nearest scaffold pole was three feet away. The red-haired foreman was coming down a ladder. He said good morning to James, and James said:

"Why did you have your scaffolding right across my door last night?"

"There wasn't no scaffolding across that door," he said.

"O, yes, there was," said James.

The foreman grinned.

"Well, I've known what it was not to be able to find me own front door, but I didn't go advertising it next day."

"Look here," said James, "when I came home last night there was scaffolding out to about here, and I had to duck under it to get to the door, and something like a chimney pot or a load of bricks smashed down off the roof and only just missed laying me out."

"Some blind!" he said enviously. "And you don't seem to have slept it off yet. We didn't put no scaffolding across your door not yet take any away, and if chimney pots and half tons of bricks were a-pitching of themselves off the roof, well, they've picked themselves up and walked away again—that's all I can say."

It was perfectly true. James' blood boiled with rage, and then cooled with the consciousness that he was making a fool of himself, and that the foreman genuinely believed him to have come home very drunk indeed. He gazed at the cobbled yard and found no trace of the avalanche which had just missed his head last night. If a chimney pot had fallen, where was it—if a hundred bricks, who had picked them up? He went through his own door in a very bad temper and banged it after him.

James reckoned to start for Fieldover with Col. Pomeroy's car at about 11 o'clock. Col. Pomeroy would expect him to stay to lunch, and he could catch the 4:10 at Warnley. As it was Saturday, he could have stayed the night, but he wanted to get back to town, because town meant Sally.

He was having a final look over the car, when Miss Callender appeared, hovering.

"O, Mr. Elliot, I forgot to tell you they rang up from Col. Pomeroy's to know when you were bringing the car."

"What do you mean by they?"

"I suppose it would be the butler or the chauffeur that was asking. It wasn't Col. Pomeroy."

James continued to frown. All these odd things happening, and nothing you could take hold of let alone go to the police about.

Miss Callender came out of the office and called to him.

"James, it's Sally."

"Yes?" said James. "What is it?"

Daisy Callender's ear was frankly cocked. He couldn't tell her to go to blazes, and he couldn't call Sally darling on the office telephone while she sat there listening. His frown became positively murderous as he reflected that she could probably hear what Sally was saying too. He said:

"What is it? 'm speaking from the office."

"You mean you're not alone?"

"Yes."

"James, I must speak to you."

Daisy Callender coughed, her hand on the open door.

"Will you just let me know when you're done, Mr. Elliot?" she said. With a roll of the eye and a sympathetic smile she tiptoed out of the office and closed the door behind her.

James said fervently, "She's gone. Darling, what's the matter?"

"Jocko. I knew he was boiling up for something. He's gone to Rere place."

"When?"

"This morning. He left a note for me."

James whistled.

"Well, you can't stop him."

"It isn't safe," said Sally with a sob in her voice. "He's gone down all by himself."

James considered. A week ago he would have said, "Why? What could happen to him?" Now it seemed to him that quite a number of things, all of them rather final, might happen at Rere place to any one who knew or was on the brink of knowing too much. Some one had suspected Jackson of knowing too much, and Jackson was dead. Some one—possibly—suspected James Elliot of knowing too much, and bricks fell on him in the dark, said bricks and the scaffolding from which they had fallen being carefully tidied away during the night.

Sally said, "I'm so frightened about Jocko. He won't believe there's any danger or anything."

"Look here," said James, "I'm taking Col. Pomeroy's car down to Fieldover this morning. It's quite near Warnley, you know, and if you like, I could blow in on Jocko and stay the night."

Sally caught her breath and said, "O, no—you mustn't. O, no!"

James' heart gave a bump, because if that meant anything at all, it meant that Sally was frightened about him more frightened about him than she was about Jocko. He immediately felt very fierce and aggressive, and inquired:

"Why on earth not?"

"Not both of you!" said Sally, a little wildly. "James, I must see you. I don't know how it's to be done, but I must."

"Could you drive with me part of the way and come back by train?"

"Yes, I could."

"Then I'll pick you up at Sloane square—outside the tube station. Will that do? In twenty minutes. Is that all right?"

"Yes," said Sally. Then she said, "O, James!" Then she rang off.

Jealous Mate Is the Victim of Inferiority

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is the worried wife of an insanely jealous husband. And an insanely jealous husband does create one of the most difficult of marriage problems. If the couple goes out among friends, the wife's life is made miserable for days afterward because of the unjust accusations hurled at her. If they stay home [his usual request] there they stay, see no one, hear from no one, and they get on each other's nerves with only themselves to entertain in a tiny apartment.

On occasions the pair haven't spoken for days at a time, the wife angry because of the charges hurled at her, and the man because of the green-eyed demon eating away at his heart. Not at his heart, we should say, but at what should be his brain.

A certain hopelessness possesses us when we are confronted with the jealous mate problem. We have seen him or her in operation and we know that some mad thing invades the senses, misconstruing the most innocent motives and actions. Personally, we feel these extreme cases of jealousy require mental treatment in the hands of one skilled in the mental quirks that inspire the temporary, mad obsessions. It is difficult for the victim to effect any remedy alone. It doesn't even do, as we have observed, for the wife to forego all conversation with one of the opposite sex, for into even this the jealous one can read sly motives.

Fundamentally, what is wrong is that the jealous culprit is completely unsure of himself or herself, not certain that he or she can hold the affections of the beloved. A base complex with the threadworn name, inferiority, is the driving force for all the meanness that can be committed in the name of jealousy. If only victims of the ignoble passion could but be convinced that every exposition of the vice they make is merely an exhibition of how unsure they themselves feel of their power to attract and hold, it might bring them up with a good stiff wham and let them see themselves as others see them on a jealous binge.

She and Mr. Glick met while they were both students at the University of Wisconsin. They will spend their honeymoon in Mexico and California, and on their return will make their home in Chicago.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Many a hostess has been horrified to discover that the cost of the Christmas dinner which she served in her home exceeded the amount which would have been spent if the whole group had dined de luxe in a restaurant.

But a well planned Christmas dinner will last for several days, and if the total cost is stretched over the additional meals the amount isn't so astonishing, after all.

This group of recipes may offer help in making good use of the remaining Christmas food. None of these dishes even faintly bespeaks its left-over nature.

Turkey or Chicken Casserole.
[Serves Six.]

2 cups cooked diced turkey, chicken, duck, or goose meat
1 No. 2 can corn, cream style
1 onion, cut finely
2 stalks celery, chopped
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
Buttered crums

Combine all ingredients except crums and place in a buttered casserole. Top with crums, dot with butter, and bake for 40 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

Turkey or Chicken in Rice Ring.
[Serves Six.]

2 cups diced cooked turkey, chicken, or other fowl
1½ cups medium white sauce
1 cup rice
3 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
Pepper
1 tablespoon butter

Combine turkey with white sauce and serve in the center of the rice ring. To make the ring boil the rice briskly in the amount of water specified, to which the salt has been added. Drain, add eggs beaten slightly, milk, pepper, and butter. Put the mixture in a well buttered ring mold and set the mold in a pan of hot water. Bake in a 325 degree oven until the rice is firm.

After-Christmas Fruit Salad.
[Serves Four.]

½ cup seeded grapes
1 cup sliced bananas
½ cup diced apples
½ cup broken nutmeats
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup mayonnaise or whipped cream dressing
½ cup jellied cranberry sauce, cut in dice

Chill ingredients and combine lightly, all except cranberry sauce. Use this as garnish for the salad. Serve on lettuce.

[Serves Eight.]

½ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1½ cups cake flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup mincemeat
¼ cup sugar

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and beat together until fluffy. Add the eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Sift flour and resift with salt and baking powder. Add alternately with milk to first mixture, beating well after each addition. Butter a shallow pan and sprinkle with the one-quarter cup sugar. Spread mincemeat over sugar and turn the cake batter over the mincemeat. Bake at 350 degrees, moderate temperature, for about 45 minutes. Serve hot with whipped cream or lemon or vanilla sauce.

No need for left overs to look like leftovers. Get new ideas from the Tribune booklet, "Glorifying the Leftovers," on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, Tribune tower and 1 South Dearborn street for 3 cents. By mail 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade.

"Sunshine and Shadow" is one of the highlights in the field of old quilts, and it is one of the few combination pieced and applique blocks. Each semicircle is appliqued upon the triangular patch. This pattern was one of the first designs attempted after women began to consider anything more complicated than the crazy quilt. This design is cut from a four patch pattern and the finished block measures 16 inches square. The combination blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement with plain blocks and surrounded by a five inch border and a one-half inch bias binding.

Izler Solomon Wins Plaudits with Symphony

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The hugely talented Izler Solomon, who has been prevented by illness from making more than one or two appearances this season, conducted the Illinois Symphony orchestra at the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon before an audience which was very much smaller than the quality of the program deserved.

Mr. Solomon, who is still in his twenties, possesses an innate musical sense which manages to find expression in divers ways—in an effortless manner of conveying his rhythmic ideas to the orchestra, for instance. Yesterday's performance of the "Bartered Bride" dances boasted a smoothness and an infectiousness which it would not be any too easy to match.

The musical high point of the afternoon was a playing by strings alone of Bach's last work, the choral prelude, "Vor Deinem Thron' Tret' Ich Hervor." Dictated by the then blind composer from his deathbed, this superlative music represents Bach's well authenticated final gesture to his art.

A musicianly performance of the A-minor triple concerto of the same composer enlisted the services of Marion Hall, pianist; Fritz Siegal, violinist, and Evald Snellman, flutist. Competence and reverence distinguishes the approach of all three to the difficulties and profundities of the work—surely a happy combination of qualities for any one who would cope with the music of Bach.

SYMPHONIE FANTASTIQUE

That grievous trouble with backdrops between the fourth and fifth movements of the "Symphonie Fantastique," trouble which served to remind one of the usual technical perfection of the company's presentations. The superb, nightmarish grotesquerie of Boris Belsky's enactment of the jailer [fourth movement]. The subtly beautiful lighting effects in the Symphonie's opening division. Anna Adrianova's unearthly lightness and grace in the same movement of the work. Dimitri Rostoff's ability to mime Gallantry itself, not merely to catch its spirit. Alexis Kosloff's pantomine with Massine in the scene in the fields.

The excellent music of "The Gods Go A-Begging," which grows unbelievably even from a first to a second hearing. The exquisite groupings in the same piece. Yurek Shabelevsky's sunny portrayal of the shepherd—and later of the god. Alexandra Danilova's technique—which each year seems to be susceptible of no further polish, then becomes noticeably smoother and more brilliant at our next sight of her.

Store Some of the New Toys for Rainy Day

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

You have a good reserve against stormy spells of weather or raw winter days when the children have to stay indoors, if they have just been flooded with Christmas playthings, books and craft and art materials. Or if not flooded with them, if they still seemed a little bewildered by their variety, and you found them after Christmas day playing sketchily with one and then another.

With the younger children especially, but the older ones too, it is a good practical scheme to take away and store out of sight certain of their new possssions. You may find out by watching, which things they enjoy the most and abstract the others. Or you may make some other selection, depending on the kind and quality of playthings your child has been given.

When a rainy spell keeps the children indoors, bring out one or more of the toys in this reserve supply; or do it when you have special company of your own and want to be sure of quiet; or when your child is getting over a cold or other illness. They will seem fresh and new.

This is a good plan for two reasons. One is that children enjoy more playing intensively with a few things than they do being surfeited with quantity. There is, of course, an exception to this as to all rules. The exception applies to certain toys where quantity increases the fun and also the possibilities of creative play. This would be true of blocks, of some little toy barnyard and wild animals, of very tiny trucks and automobiles that are enjoyed more in a fleet.

Another reason why it's a good plan to take away some toys is because they may be too complicated, or in some other way beyond a child in age, or they may be shoddily made and only annoy a child because they break or don't work as they are supposed to.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Have you seen the dry-me-dry kitchen towels? They're a new trick for the housewife. Woven of linen, cotton and rayon combined, they have a maximum absorbency and strength. They dry almost twice as fast as an ordinary towel and leave no lint on glassware.

These towels are attractive, too. In white they have a printed, wide border design of green baskets and flowers, or of wine toned baskets. Or you may choose huge circles in blue, in green, or in beige and brown on white. They're nice enough to use as hand towels, if you wish, and are not expensive.

For information about these items telephone Edith Weigle, Tribune Public Service office, Superior 0100.

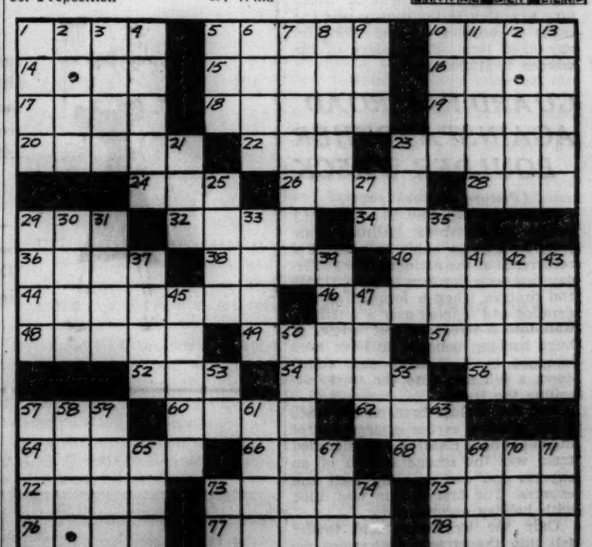
SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



FIVE CONSIDERED FOR WARDEN OF COUNTY HOSPITAL

Present Conditions Make Job Hard to Fill.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Five outstanding hospital administrators are under discussion for the post of warden of the Cook County hospital. The question of the vacancy will be taken up tomorrow at a conference of the county board's hospital advisory committee with

Dr. A. C. Bachmeyer.

J. D. Lutes.

Clayton F. Smith, president of the board, and County Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke, chairman of the hospital committee.

None of the five, however, has evinced willingness to take the post under present conditions and as a result, the status of the vacancy, created by the resignation of Michael Zimmer, veteran warden of the hospital, is still that of the job seeking the man.

Three Are Nonresidents.

Three of the men under consideration are nonresidents of Chicago, each with a distinguished record for administration of a public hospital. They are Dr. Robin C. Buerki, superintendent of the Wisconsin General hospital at Madison; Dr. Benjamin W. Black, superintendent of Highland Hospital of Alameda County in Oakland, Cal., and Dr. Fred G. Carter, superintendent of Christ hospital, Cincinnati.

The two local men are Dr. A. C. Bachmeyer, director of clinics of the University of Chicago, and J. D. Lutes, superintendent of Ravenswood hospital.

The Wisconsin General hospital is operated in conjunction with the medical school of the University of Wisconsin, and is a public hospital for citizens of that state. It is a large institution with a fine reputation which is attributed in large part to the administrative ability of Dr. Buerki.

Outstanding County Hospital.

The hospital at Oakland which Dr. Black has headed for ten years has perhaps the best reputation of any county hospital in the country. Dr. Black, along with Dr. Carter, has been in correspondence with President Smith and members of the advisory committee, but neither has had a personal conference with them.

Christ hospital, of which Dr. Carter is now superintendent is a private institution, however Dr. Carter made his reputation as a public hospital administrator at Ancker hospital in St. Paul, the charity hospital of that city and Ramsay county.

Dr. Bachmeyer also has wide experience in public hospital administration, principally at Cincinnati General hospital. That institution, when he took command was badly over expanded as a result of civic pride. Much of Dr. Bachmeyer's work, which led to his employment by the University of Chicago, was along lines of fiscal administration which led to vast improvement.

Mr. Lutes is the only layman among the five men under consideration. Under his administration Ravenswood hospital has advanced to leading rank among the outlying institutions in Chicago.

No Security Assured.

None of the candidates, it is understood, is particularly anxious to take the county hospital job under present circumstances, because they would have no guarantee of security. Dr. Bachmeyer and Dr. Buerki hold faculty rank amounting to life tenure in their present jobs. Dr. Black, Dr. Carter and Mr. Lutes all have harmonious relations where they are working.

At the request of Mr. Smith and Mr. Bobrytzke, State's Attorney Courtney has been investigating legal aspects of the question. His present opinion, however, is that an act of the state legislature will be necessary to authorize the county board to make a contract for the office for any fixed term. The salary of the warden is $10,000 a year.

GUARD RAILROAD AGAINST ANOTHER BOULDER WRECK

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The Pennsylvania Railroad company took steps today to prevent a recurrence of the accident here yesterday that took the lives of an engineer and fireman when a locomotive was derailed and toppled over a retaining wall into a street 60 feet below. A huge boulder, believed to have been loosened by a thawing sun, rolled down a hill and onto the track, derailing the train.

Had the boulder been on the track a few minutes earlier a large loss of life might have resulted. The derailed train was the second section of an express and was carrying mail and express. The first section was filled with holiday excursionists.

Only the locomotive and tender fell into the street. Both were demolished. Fourteen colored dining car waiters were cut and bruised when the car attached to the end of the train was derailed and bumped over the ties.

300,000 TO SEE NEW YEAR'S DAY BOWL BATTLES

Alabama, California Game Tops List.

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The bowl business booms again this week.

From Pasadena and its Rose Bowl, to Miami and its Orange Bowl, with important stops at Dallas, El Paso and New Orleans—and not overlooking the east-west warfare at San Francisco—football ushers in the new year next Saturday, as usual, with firing by the mighty of the gridiron on six fronts.

And, as usual, Mr. and Mrs. Gus H. Fan and the children will respond at a turnstile-clicking pace to warm the hearts of those who count the gate receipts. The probability is some 300,000 persons will sit, stand, and leap about in the banked stadia from coast to coast.

Every Section Represented.

Every section of the football map is represented at one or another of the clashes, although the east, despite its fine intersectional showing during the recently concluded regular season, will have only one standard bearer — West Virginia, which meets Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl at El Paso. Uninvited were such mighty undefeated elevens as Pittsburgh's Panthers, who didn't want to go anyway; Fordham's Rams, and Villanova's Wildcats.

The south sends three outfits to the wars in Alabama, meeting with California at the Rose Bowl; Louisiana State, playing a return engagement with undefeated Santa Clara in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, and Auburn, facing Michigan State, in Miami's Orange Bowl. Michigan State is the only mid-west contender, while the Rocky mountain sector, breaking back into the gridiron headlines, sends its unbeaten Colorado university firm of Whizzer White and company against Rice's southwest conference titleholders in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

Rose Bowl Heads List.

In point of seniority and fan turnout, the Rose Bowl battle, which figures to draw a crowd approaching the 100,000 mark, heads the list. California's Bears, unbeaten and tied only by Washington as they drove to the Pacific coast conference crown, go into the game as favorites. But there's nothing one-sided about it, particularly in view of Alabama's impressive record of never having been beaten in four previous bowl assignments.

Undefeated and untied this year in a schedule that included the pick of the south for opposition the Crimson Tide Coach Frank Thomas has taken to Pasadena this time will give a good account of itself. With an attack featuring the ball-handling work of Joe Kilgrow and a defense ably led by Capt. Roy Monsky, the Tide may capitalize on the known weakness of the California contingent—pass defense.

East-West to Draw 60,000.

At San Francisco, meantime, the annual game between picked squads from east and west will be entertaining a crowd of 60,000, more or less, with some more passing action. The west particularly has planned its defense around the overhead game, hoping to cash in on some of the season's standout pass receivers.

Louisiana State's Bayou Tigers have made the Sugar Bowl game somewhat of a monopoly for themselves, but in two previous starts they were whipped twice. Seeking revenge for the beating they absorbed last Jan. 1, the Tigers face Santa Clara in a game that will draw the most critical audience of the day. In the stands, enlarged to hold 45,000, will be most of the visiting delegates to the football coaches' association meetings, who are noted for their busman's holidays whenever there's a football game within reach.

Whizzer White, high-scoring back, probably will be playing his last game of football as he leads Colorado against Rice in the Cotton Bowl. After his forthcoming graduation White goes to England on a Rhodes scholarship.

30,000 Tickets Sold for Game in Cotton Bowl

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The financial success of the Cotton Bowl game here New Year's day already is assured, its backers reported today. With the Rice and Colorado elevens nearing condition, it's up to the weather man to provide the perfect setting.

J. Curtis Sanford, president of the Cotton Bowl Association, Inc., said approximately 30,000 of the 46,000 seats had been sold.

In their Houston and Fort Worth camps, Rice and Colorado prepared for their last few days of hard work. Rice enjoyed the last day of a three day layoff today, but the Colorado squad worked out for an hour and a half.

Referees—Ag Smith and Burt McCaffrey.

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks maintained their status as the New York Rangers' main jinx tonight by defeating the New Yorkers, 3 to 1, in a hard fought National hocky league game. The Hawks have won only six games this season, but three of them have been at the expense of the Rangers.

A major penalty imposed on Lynn Patrick in the second period was the turning point of the game, the Blackhawks scoring their first two goals while the big winger was in the penalty box. He accidentally cut Earl Seibert in the face while carrying his stick high.

The victory enabled Chicago to move within six points of the Rangers and extend their advantage over the Detroit Red Wings to three full games.

About a minute after Patrick was chased Johnny Gottselig fired a shot past Davey Kerr from well out on a nice play with Doc Romnes and Paul Thompson. Before Patrick returned to the ice Cully Dahlstrom added another, with Gottselig and Glen Brydson assisting.

Rangers Keep Trying, Score.

For the balance of the game the Rangers kept up a relentless attack which netted them a goal early in the third period, Butch Keeling scoring on an assist by Babe Pratt and Phil Watson. But before the lone Ranger goal, Louis Trudel and Seibert broke from a power play, Seibert scoring.

Seibert stick handled his way right through the Rangers' defense, but Kerr slid out to prevent a goal. Then Dahlstrom made Kerr stretch with a flip shot and Voss just missed the rebound.

Dillon made a backhand shot on a rush with Pratt that almost fooled Goalie Karakas of the Hawks as the Rangers momentarily came to life. But Gottselig came right back and made Kerr stretch with a low shot intended for the corner of the Ranger net.

Goalies Get Rest.

Romnes tested Kerr twice in quick succession with long shots at the start of the second period. Seibert had a perfect scoring chance, but delayed his shot and was checked.

Dillon drove in on Karakas, but his shot skidded by the front of the net. Cooper crosschecked Gottselig heavily, and the Hawk wingman had to be assisted from the ice. A penalty was called on the play, and the Hawks put four men on the attack.

After Cooper had returned Patrick drew his penalty and the Hawks profited at 14:14 when Gottselig sent the puck past Kerr on the near side of the net after taking passes from Romnes and Thompson. Thompson kicked the puck into the New York net a minute later, but the goal was not allowed. Shortly after, the Hawks sank one that did count, Dahlstrom making the score 2 to 0 in 17:05, with Gottselig and Brydson assisting.

The third period was but 2 minutes and 8 seconds old when the Hawks went ahead, 3 to 0. Trudel passed to Seibert and the big defense man skated in fast, drawing Kerr out and scoring easily.

Eleanor Thiel Dyer was the outstanding skater among the hundreds who competed in the Catholic Youth organization's annual ice Derbies on the Humboldt park lagoon yesterday. Mrs. Dyer competed in two events, the women's Class A 440 yard race, and the three quarter mile race for senior girls, and won them both.

In the women's event she barely beat out Shirley Jamieson of the Northwest Skating club. Elaine Bogda, also of the Northwest club, finished third. Mrs. Dyer skated the distance in :47. Trailing her in the senior girls' race were Miss Bogda and Miss Jamieson in the order named. The winner's time was 2:35 2-5.

This Was a Thriller.

One of the most thrilling events of the afternoon was the Class A half mile men's race, won by Eddie Schroeder of the Northwest Skating club. Al Kucera set the early pace and held it until the last lap when the battle developed between Schroeder and Vic Ronchetti of the C. Y. O. They pulled away from Kucera by ten yards and finished only inches apart. Despite the slow ice the time was 1:17.2, only two seconds off the record set by Clas Thunberg of Finland in 1926.

Bob Sherman of the Northwest Skating club won the class A 440 yard men's event. The photo finish camera was used to decide the first three places. The print shows that Sherman was the winner, but does not settle second and third. The judges ruled that Tony Neberz of the C. Y. O. was second and Schroeder was third.

Coach Miller Protests.

Pete Miller, coach of the C. Y. O. skaters, has entered a protest. He contends Bernie Cannata of the C. Y. O. finished second and Neberz was third. If the judges had ruled the finish as Pete believes it was, Northwest and C. Y. O. would have finished in a tie for points in the team standing with 510 each. As it is now, Northwest won the meet with 520 points and C. Y. O. was second with 500.

Earl W. Solem, president of the Illinois Skating association, has called a meeting of the judges who officiated in the race, and the coaches of the Northwest and C. Y. O. teams to rule on second and third place winners.

Twenty-two in Long Race.

In the two mile men's class A race a field of twenty-two started, with Al Retz of the Northwest Skating club taking the early lead and holding it for five of the twelve laps. Then Al Scully shot into the lead and stayed there for three laps. Bob Hackenback of the Northwest club overtook him and led until the back stretch, when Ronchetti came on to win. Bob finished second and Neberz was third. The time was 6:08.2.

The club two mile relay race was won by the Northwest Skating club, which defeated the C. Y. O. Eddie Schroeder, who had triumphed over Ronchetti in the senior men's one-half mile, again came through in front of Vic to help his club win.

Youngsters Show Speed.

Three members of the Northwest club monopolized the girls' juvenile race. Shirley Jane Burnett won by a quarter of a lap over Sue Frank. Grace Jaynes finished third. The distance was 440 yards, and the time was :52.7.

A trio of girl skaters from the C. Y. O. took the first three places in the 440 yard junior girls' event. Bunny Lawler finished ten yards ahead of Eleanor Freisinger, and Shirley

Feller Still Has Baseball Men Guessing

Cleveland, O., Dec. 26.—(AP)—How many ball games will Bob Feller, considered by some as one of the outstanding disappointments of 1937, win for the Cleveland Indians in 1938?

Two former Indian managers agreed today that 19 year old Feller should have a successful season, but disagreed on the number of victories he may turn in.

"With his arm in good condition, and with the experience the boy gained last summer, Feller has possibilities of winning from 25 to 35 games. That isn't a prediction, but he has those possibilities."

You're Right, Mr. O'Neill.

Responded Steve O'Neill, Buffalo's new manager:

"That is a lot of victories for a kid. It's been a long time since any pitcher won 35 games in a season, and I doubt if as young a hurler as Feller will reach that mark."

Speaker again:

"The boy knows all he needs to know about throwing a baseball. He's been learning that since he was big enough to throw. He needs control and experience now, and he can get both by pitching in regular three and four day turns."

Rebuttal by O'Neill:

"If Bob ages enough and grows enough this winter he may be able to take a regular turn. As an 18 year old growing boy last summer he didn't have the stamina to pitch more than once a week. I tried him several times in regular four day turns and found out, as Feller agreed, that he didn't have all his stuff when started that often."

Speaker Defends Feller.

Speaker took issue with the critics who listed Feller among the baseball flops of 1937. "They made their mistake in predicting he'd win 25 games last summer," he said. "The boy needed experience and wasn't to be rated off the few games he pitched in 1936. With his present experience he may be rated a 25 game winner.

"He reminds me of 'Smoky' Joe Wood when Wood first broke into the majors, a tall, gangling youngster with a good curve ball and plenty of speed. And Wood won 34 games in 1912."

MEXICAN ARMY POLO TEAM WINS OVER TEXANS, 8-7

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26. — (AP) — Handicapped by the absence of the injured Cecil Smith, the Texas Rangers polo team lost an overtime decision to the Mexican army riders today, 8 to 7. It was the Rangers' only defeat in the three game series.

Smith, ten-goal player, suffered a broken collarbone in the second game of the series last Wednesday. His replacement today was Clarence Stark, a four-goal player from San Antonio, Tex.

A long angled shot by Gracias, Mexican No. 1, from 80 yards out ended the game in the sixth minute of overtime. The Americans had trailed, 7 to 5, going into the final chukker, but tied the score on Rube Williams' goal and George Oliver's free shot from the 40 yard mark. William Dritt, a four goal rider from San Antonio, substituted for C. Wrightsman in the final three chukkers.

The Mexicans had put Maj. Francisco Medina, four-goal player, into the game at No. 4 after Ramos Sesma was injured in a fall in the second chukker.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Dec. 26.—The United States may boast of the exploits of its riding Garners, McAtees, Parkes, and Factors, but the Cubans have gone America one better.

In Oriental Park's opening dash today the first three placed horses were ridden by members of the Fernandez family, reputedly brothers. F. Fernandez rode the winner, A. F. Fernandez, the runner-up, and A. Fernandez the horse finishing third.

From the odds it would appear that most of the customers also were connected with the clan Fernandez, for the winner, Dome, was a 4 to 5 odds on favorite.

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Jack Doyle, Broadway's betting commissioner, tonight made California a 3 to 1 favorite over Alabama in their Rose Bowl game New Year's day.

Louisiana State is a 2 to 1 favorite over Santa Clara in the Sugar Bowl game and Auburn is quoted at the same price over Michigan State for the Orange Bowl encounter. Rice, Southwestern conference champion, is 3 to 1 over Colorado. West Virginia and Texas Tech are quoted at 5 to 4 either way, and the All Eastern team is 10 to 7 over the West.

Other prices are Michigan State, 2 to 3; Santa Clara, 2 to 3; Colorado, 1 to 2, and the All-West team, even.

FLANNAGAN SETS THREE NEW SWIM MARKS AT MIAMI

Ralph Flannagan, Olympic star, and holder of the American mile, half-mile and quarter-mile titles, set three new marks in a 250 yard sprint over a 200 yard course.

He clipped 9 3-10 seconds off the 250 yard record held by Paul Wolf; 3-5ths of a second off Johnny Weismuller's 220 yard record, and 2 2-5 seconds off Weismuller's 200 yard mark.

The attempts were officially timed by A. A. U. officials and will be sent to New York for acceptance.

Other new records were established by Adolph Kelfer, backstroke; Dorothy Forbes, backstroke; Mike Sojka, breaststroke; Peter Fick, sprint swimmer, and by two relay teams, one of them composed of girls.

EIGHT PAIRS OF SILVER SKATES AWAIT VICTORS

Tribune Derbies Provide Competition for All.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

There's an age class suitable for every boy and girl who wishes to compete in the Tribune's twenty-first Silver Skates Derbies at Garfield park Jan. 15 and 16. Gradually developed since the first event was held in 1917, there now are eight age classes, five of which are for boys and men.

There's a souvenir badge for every competitor, a gold medal for every winner of a preliminary race, and forty major prizes for the winners in the eight finals, as well as team trophies and gold medals for the skaters leading for the greatest number of laps in the men's senior and girls' senior championship derbies.

A Fair Chance for All.

All contestants will have a fair opportunity to win in preliminaries conducted by Tribune officials and members of the Illinois Skating association, which has sanctioned the Derbies. Youngsters will be assigned to their trials in groups of from six to ten, depending on their ages. Each winner of these races, regardless of later success or failure, will have a good qualifying medal to prove superiority in his first attempt.

No amateur skater is barred if he sends his registration to THE TRIBUNE before midnight Jan. 9. Preliminaries will be held in at least three of the boys' Derbies—midget, juvenile, and junior—on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 15. If registration in other age class warants, preliminaries will be held in these events on the same afternoon.

Each year the number of contestants in the Silver Skates Derbies has ranged from 3,000 to 4,500, depending generally on the weather conditions preceding the dates for the races and the consequent time available for practice. No particular effort has been made to recruit entries except notification in this newspaper and printed announcements distributed to clubs and organizations. However, there is no limit on the number of entries.

I. S. A. Officials Help.

Officials of the Illinois Skating association will coöperate in conducting preliminary races on Friday, Jan. 14, if necessary, and in future years, should the number of entries make it necessary, preliminary centers can be established and the qualifiers from these meets will then compete in the two day championship meet.

Individual entries can be made on the blank which is printed daily in these pages. Team entries, in order to simplify the requirement of registration, may be made by listing all names and ages. The coach or manager is requested, however, to separate the contestants by age groups to assist the clerks who must tabulate them for the program. This program will be distributed without charge at Garfield park on Jan. 15 and 16.

Each contestant receives a number in the program and is listed in his respective age case. There are racing numbers for all entrants. These are passed out to the skaters as they report to the officials and are assigned to the preliminary races. This system makes it possible for hundreds to compete in a two hour period. All eight championships, after semi-final events, will be decided on Jan. 16.

Park District Also Helps.

Preceded by the events listed in Chicago's Golden Week of Skating, the Silver Skates races will be the season's climax. Garfield park, one of the few skating centers in the city providing large enough quarters for the number of contestants, will be prepared for the Derbies by the Chicago park district. Bleacher seats will be erected along the course, which will be laid out on the lagoon.

The championship program will be held to approximately two hours and the concluding event of the afternoon on Jan. 16 will be the twenty-first men's senior Derby over a two mile course. In this senior race it is expected that the best skaters in Chicago and the midwest will compete for the sterling silver skates.

GOMEZ, YANKEES' PITCHER, SEEKS A MEXICAN DIVORCE

Lexington, Mass., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The former June O'Dea, once a musical comedy actress, tonight said her husband, Vernon [Lefty] Gomez, New York Yankees' pitching star, had left her and filed suit for divorce in Mexico.

Asserting she had received formal divorce papers filed by Gomez, she declared she would fight the action. She said Gomez went to California shortly after the world series. He based his suit, she said, on incompatibility. They were married five years ago in New York.

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The fighter of the year, by an overwhelming vote in the Ring magazine's 1937 international poll, is Henry Armstrong, the colored boxer from Los Angeles, who blasted his way to the world featherweight title and now menaces the lightweight ranks.

So strong was the backing for Armstrong that he was rated the No. 1 man among the lightweights, a notch above Champion Lou Ambers, besides being the unanimous choice for top featherweight and, pound for pound, the best fighter in the pugilistic trade.

These findings were compiled and copyrighted.

Olympias Win, 7 to 1; Enter Third Round

BY OFFSIDE.

The Olympia soccer team swamped the Calumet Parks, 7 to 1, yesterday in a second round replay amateur match at the Olympia stadium, 19th street and Kilpatrick avenue. The winners will meet the Falks of Milwaukee next Sunday in a third round match in Chicago.

Tomecek, Kriz and Koubek scored for the Olympias in the first period to give them a commanding lead. The second half was a parade for the winners, Kriz, Koubek, Ceverny and Hamous beating Goalie James with well timed shots. The Calumets finally came to life when it was too late and tried hard but the one goal they scored was the work of Kriz of the Olympias. During a scrimmage he sent the ball past his own goalie and into the net.

In a second round match at Peru, Ill., the Nickeloids of Peru whipped the Swedish-Americans, 5 to 1, scoring three of their goals in the first three minutes of play. Guerrini got two of these and F. Bernabei the other.

J. Bernabei sneaked another goal for Peru past Holmes before the period ended. The second period saw the Swedes come to life but poor play around the goal spoiled most of their chances. After passing for twenty minutes Carlson finally got a goal from ten yards out. J. Bernabei scored from fifteen yards for another Nickeloid goal just before the game ended. Lineups:

A Duck Expert Frowns; 1938 Outlook Bad

BY BOB BECKER.

Duck hunters in Illinois and owners of day fee shooting places along the river continue to worry over the outlook for waterfowl hunting in 1938. Letters with a distinct note of pessimism continue to come in. Following is a letter from H. S., who has been taking in daily fee hunters along the Illinois:

"Your information as to plans for closing the day shoots in the lower Illinois is not in error. The river men who attempt to make a living from it have been forced to the wall. Leases, equipment, and help hold them down to the point where they can't make any money taking care of the free lance shooters on such shooting as we have now.

Here's What Happened.

"If our bungling conservation department further muddles matters by setting the Illinois season ahead to the month of December, we'd just as well all fold up. The migration this year started in Canada about Oct. 12. The heavy flight arrived around Oct. 23. There were plenty of birds at that time. There was another flight, somewhat smaller, the night before Thanksgiving, but these birds stayed only one day. Frozen feed and water drove them farther south.

"Here's what happened to the Illinois flyway this season, and I've substantiated this information by an inquiry covering some seventeen counties along the valley: We had without any doubt the greatest corn crop in history. With pot holes lower since the drought, the ducks simply fed the corn fields at night and hit open water in the large lake areas during the day. Coupled with the fact that the first half of the season scarcely brought any weather suitable to force flying, you have the answer in a nutshell.

Problem Is Serious.

"We face a serious problem with respect to conservation laws. If we are unable to force recognition of men who actually know conditions, the white collar boys handling the situation are going to have a million dollar industry legislated out of existence. The men who think they know all the answers are in the saddle, and the boys who have spent years getting the seat of their pants wet belong for the most part to the mute majority. They talk a great deal among themselves, but, like many of us in similar situations, they lack the initiative to do anything. Silence or passive resistance, such as we now cope with, will scarcely get the ball rolling."

Efforts to set up a modern, scientific conservation department in Illinois for the past fifteen years confirm these statements. The mute majority will not, as a rule, get out and work for a conservation cause. But more shooters will have to get to work pretty soon if they want better duck hunting.

RED BANK WINS.

Red Bank, N. J., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—With Clarence Buddy Combs scoring ten goals, the Red Bank Polo club today defeated the Squadron A, 1st cavalry team of New York, 15 to 10.

ARON, RAYMOND BATTLE TONIGHT IN TEN ROUNDS

Head 51st Show of Year at Marigold.

Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight star, and Lou Raymond, rugged Baltimore, Md., newcomer, will meet in a ten round bout tonight that will close the 1937 season at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Promoters expect a crowd of 1,500 to pay about $1,600 to see the fifty-first show held at Marigold during the year.

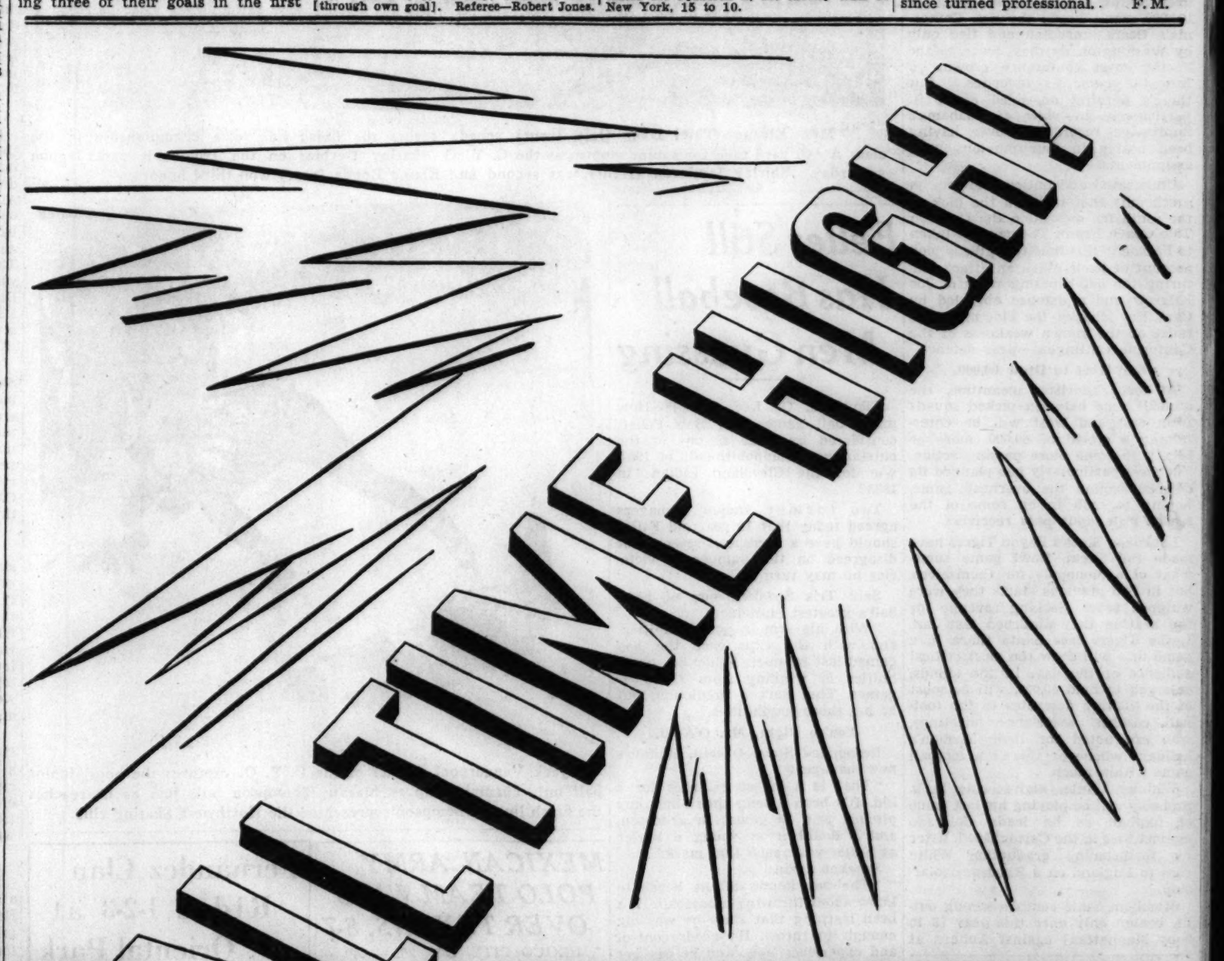
At that rate the year's attendance at the north side arena will be increased to an estimated 70,000 and the receipts to $75,000. These figures stamp the club as one of the most popular in the country.

Verne Patterson, who won the Golden Gloves welterweight championship at the Stadium last March, opposes Tony Petroskey of Muskegon, Mich., in the five round secondary feature. Ray Harris, Golden Gloves sectional winner, is paired with Frankie Agnes, west side lightweight, in a four rounder. Other matches at four sessions bring together Jimmy Clark, Jamestown, N. Y., middleweight, and Sherman Edwards, and Johnny Fairchild, Elgin featherweight, and Eddie Shapiro, Marshall High school senior.

Jim McMillen and Fritz Von Schacht clash in a return bout in the wrestling headliner at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. McMillen won their meeting of a week ago when his German opponent fell out of the ring and was counted out. Ole Olson and Jack [Bad Boy] Brown will be rivals in the semi-final. The preliminary card matches Jack Claybourn with Jack Conley, Roy Rickenbacher with Al Williams, and Ken Fenlon with Danny Winters.

Ed White, former manager of Jim Londos, will honor Londos at a reception this afternoon at the Sherman hotel. The affair is being held in connection with Londos' wrestling encounter with Bobby Bruns at the Coliseum Thursday. Ruffy Silverstein, Illinois heavyweight champion, has been added to the program, presented under the auspices of White. Lee Wykoff faces Fred Grubmier.

Bendix Athletic club in South Bend, Ind., and Randall gymnasium, Mount Vernon, Ill., will enter boxing teams in the sixth annual amateur tournament at the Illinois Athletic club Jan. 12, 13, and 19, club officials announced yesterday. Oshibe Smallwood will defend the light heavyweight championship he won last January as a representative of Randall gym. Personnel of the Bendix squad has not been announced. The club had four standard bearers in the finals of the 1937 tournament. They were Joey Chizar, bantamweight; Joe Lopez, lightweight; George Abrams, welterweight, and Alex Kettles, heavyweight. Kettles and Chizar have since turned professional. F. M.



WHAT the advertiser gets out of a newspaper depends on what the editor puts in. Because the Tribune gives readers more for their money, it gives advertisers more for theirs.

During the official six month period ended September 30, 1937, Tribune total daily circulation averaged 845,585. This was 408,776 more than the total daily net paid circulation of any other Chicago newspaper—an all time high in reader preference for the Tribune.

Since 1917 Tribune total daily circulation increased from 381,675 to 845,585—a gain of 463,910, or 122%.

This is a gain over four times greater than that of any other Chicago daily newspaper in existence in 1917. It is a gain larger than the present total daily circulation of any other Chicago newspaper.

No matter what you are selling, there are more sales for you in the Chicago market when you place more of your advertising in the Chicago Tribune.

LOYOLA IS HOST TO CALIFORNIA QUINTET TONIGHT

Games Tonight

Minnesota vs. Long Island at New York.

California at Loyola.

Loyola university and the University of California will provide Chicago's only college basketball attraction tonight. The touring Bears, opening a holiday invasion of the middlewest, meet the Ramblers, who have won two of their three starts, in Alumni gymnasium on the Loyola campus at 8:15 p. m.

Activity for Western conference quintets is restricted to two battles on widely separated fronts, the University of Minnesota team meeting Long Island university in Madison Square Garden in New York City and Ohio State engaging Creighton of Omaha at Columbus.

Coast Five Drills.

The California squad, which will hold a brief drill on the Loyola floor today following its 2,000 mile trip from the west coast, is an aggregation of veterans led by Capt. Chet Carlisle, a standout in the Pacific Coast conference for the last two seasons. In Capt. Carlisle, who is 6 feet 4 inches tall, Mike Novak, 6 foot 9 inch center of the Ramblers, will meet an opponent worthy of his best efforts. The performances of these two giants of the court should afford an interesting sidelight for the 4,000 fans who are expected to jam the gymnasium.

Coach Nibs Price of the Bears expects to start Bob Chalmers, a deadly shot from close in, and Ed Dougherty, a two year veteran, at forwards. Dougherty was shifted to his present post because of his shooting ability after a creditable showing at guard.

The guards are Lewis Goldstein and Bill Garretson, both strong on defense, and also capable of finding the hoop from down the floor.

Loyola Can Score.

The Loyola players, undismayed by their setback at the hands of the high-scoring Purdue quintet last week, have been laboring daily to perfect a defense for the fast-breaking offensive employed by the Bears. The Ramblers, with Wibs Kautz, who has collected 55 points to date to set the scoring pace, have no fear of a shortage of baskets.

Bob Brennan will pair with Kautz at the guards, Novak will be at center, and the two Bills, Lynch and O'Brien, will start at forwards for Loyola.

At Columbus the Buckeyes return to duty after a sixteen day layoff. They have beaten Nebraska and Marietta in their two games this season. It is the plan of Ohio State's coach, Harold Olsen, to have two lineups of equal ability ready for action because of the heavy physical toll exacted by the new no-center-jump style of play.

Three New Men.

He is aided in this project by the return to eligibility of three men who are expected to be regular units of the squad throughout the season. They are John Schick, a center from Bridgeport, Conn., and Stanley Colets and Robert Lynch, guards of Bridgeport, O., and Hillyards, O., respectively. All are sophomores but, in daily practice with the team, have shown they are ready for steady employment.

IRISH BACK AT WORK

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's basketball team returned to its chores today after a three day Christmas vacation.

Coach George Keogan held a brief but spirited scrimmage today but will rest the squad tomorrow. The Irish meet Illinois at Champaign Tuesday. Notre Dame will play Northwestern at Evanston New Year's eve.

BOYS', JUNIOR U. S. NET MEETS TO OPEN TODAY

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A hundred or more youngsters who may be the Davis cup players four or five years from now will start play tomorrow in the 23d annual national junior and boys' indoor tennis title tournaments at the Seventh Regiment armory.

Headed by Billy Gillespie of the Scarborough [N. Y.] school, the field takes in players from eleven states from Massachusetts to California by way of Georgia, Louisiana, and Arkansas.

The champion travelers in the tournament are Robert A. Low of Stanford university, whose home is in New York; Frank McElwee of the University of Arkansas; Don Buffington of Atlanta, Gillespie's Scarborough school teammate: Lawrence E. Alson of Tulane, and Walter B. Meserole and Harold Jay Berk of the University of North Carolina.

Seeded in order behind Gillespie in the junior draw are Isadore Bellis of Philadelphia, Marvin Kantrowitz of New York, runner-up last year to Don McNeill of Oklahoma City; Joseph Fishbach of St. John's university, New York; Low, William Umstaedter of Millburn, N. J., 1936 boys' champion; Malcolm Weinstein of Penn State and Ralph Jr. of Trinity school.

Only three seeded players are to play in the first round. The others drew byes. Bellis will face Cas Citron of Lafayette. Umstaedter will play Berk, and Dawson will meet Bertram Tessman of Philadelphia.

Pat McCarty, Notre Dame Center, to Wed Tomorrow

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 26. [Special.]—Pat McCarty, Notre Dame varsity football center, will be married Tuesday to Miss Margaret Mary La Plant of Toledo, O. The wedding will take place in Toledo, which is McCarty's home. McCarty is a senior.

Crowds Grow; Hocky League Sees Big Year

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Having helped a large number of citizens to celebrate a merry Christmas, the National Hocky league today also was headed for an extremely happy New Year.

That much is evident from a survey of this year's hocky attendance. Even the Montreal Maroons, who have suffered from customer apathy in the past, are holding their own in relation to last year's figures for the same period. All other clubs report sharp rises in attendance for approximately the first third of the season.

The largest increase is noted in the New York Rangers' home games. In their first seven contests in Madison Square Garden, the Rangers drew 91,512 paid, an increase of 21,657 over the first seven games in 1936.

Hawks Show Increase.

Their city rivals, the Americans, showed a gain of 3,401 in their first six home games. The great difference in the two increases is accounted for in part by the fact that, due to their rotating home schedules, the Rangers drew the best early-season dates this year. The Americans had the choice ones a year ago.

The Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins, with 94,353 and 78,000 for eight and six home games, respectively, reported approximate gains of 12,000 each. A turnout of 95,000 fans for the Chicago Blackhawks' nine contests was lebeled a "big increase" by Business Manager Bill Tobin, while the champion Detroit Red Wings, despite a disappointing start toward defense of the Stanley cup, have drawn between 7,000 and 8,000 more fans to the first third of their 24 home engagements. The Montreal Canadiens are up 8,000 over the corresponding period a year ago.

This encouraging showing is ascribed to a variety of causes by more prominent league officials. Managers Lester Patrick of the Rangers and Red Dutton of the Americans agree that it proves a steady growth of interest in the game among sports writers as well as the general public.

Managers Are Optimistic.

"People are finding out," says Dutton, "that they get more action in five minutes of a hocky game than nine innings of baseball or a full football game."

"By word of mouth and by means of the press," Patrick continued, "hocky has come into its own as a major winter sport. Right now our club is ahead of its best previous year in attendance, and the Americans, with the best club they've ever had, also should surpass any previous total."

Frank Selke, publicity director for the Maple Leafs, who set their own season record at 262,811 last winter, says this "looks like a banner year." Tobin of the Blackhawks attributes the Chicago team's increased attendance to a change in management and the fact that "the team is hustling."

Henie Ice Revue Packs Stadium; No Show Tonight

Sonja Henie and her Hollywood ice revue played to a capacity crowd in the troupe's second showing in the stadium last night. Officials of the stadium said many were turned away.

The revue was run off smoothly following the elimination of faults which cropped up Christmas night before the sixty-one members of the cast had become familiar with the routine. Last night's show was a half hour longer than the one on opening night and the repeated calls for encores indicated that Miss Henie still is Chicago's favorite skater.

There will be no show tonight but the revue will be resumed tomorrow and run through New Year's night.

C. Y. O. Wins, 5-2; Increases Lead in Hocky League

The C. Y. O. Shamrocks retained the leadership of the Arena Amateur Hocky league by beating the Hornets, 5 to 2, at the Chicago Arena yesterday afternoon. In the other game Waukegan took over second place with a 2 to 0 victory over Whiting.

The C. Y. O. club went in front late in the first period on a goal by Bill Savela. Then, in the second period, the speedy Shamrocks added another in the second minute as Red Grossman shot in a pass from Keskey. In four minutes of this period Red Catherwood got the first of the two Hornet goals on an unassisted dash into the Shamrock net.

Before the second period had ended the C. Y. O. club had increased its advantage on goals by Savela and Mikolich.

A wild third period, which saw five penalties meted out, including a major, opened with Vic Boutin dropping in the other Hornet goal. But in 15:30 Komar took a pass from Doherty and made it five for the C. Y. O.

Waukegan's victory over Whiting was accomplished within the first three minutes of the third period.

Only some superb goal tending by Chuck Haight of Whiting, who leads the league in stops, staved off Waukegan's eventual victory until the closing period.

After one minute of this last period Eddie Janelle got the puck deep in the Waukegan territory, skated along the north sideboards the length of the rink, cut in past Haight and flipped the puck backward past the Whiting goalie. A minute and 40 seconds later he again soloed the length of the rink but Haight stopped his shot. Janelle played his own rebound and passed to his teammate, Ack Teevin, who pushed it in.

300,000 Will Cheer at Six Bowl Games

Miami. The westerners, like most of the other bowl battlers, will go in for passing in a big way. At El Paso, West Virginia is represented by an outfit that was defeated only by Pittsburgh, the country's ranking team.

ALABAMA HAS HOLIDAY

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—One more week and Alabama and California will have written the twenty-third annual chapter into the records of the Tournament of Roses football game.

Alabama's squad of forty, headed by Coach Frank Thomas, took a holiday today. A luncheon engagement, a drive along the coast line and an inspection of the warship New Mexico, made up the day's program.

Members of the Crimson Tide squad reacted with small concern over the general selection of California as the winner New Year's day, a view based mainly on the heavier poundage of the Bears.

Alabama knows that every time it has come here for the Rose Bowl game with one exception it has been the under dog—which upset the dope.

Objects of chief interest in the Alabama camp seem to be Sam Chapman, half back, pass thowing Vic Bottari, John [Jellybean] Meek, a great blocker, and big Bob Herwig, powerful center.

"We haven't scouted California, and understand they haven't scouted us, but we know they must have a great team," Coach Thomas commented. "But we have a fighting outfit that may stop them, even if they do outweigh us."

AUBURN RESUMES DRILL

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Auburn Plainsmen will return to Drake field tomorrow to resume training for their Orange Bowl game with Michigan State at Miami New Year's day.

Coach Jack Meagher said the Plainsmen, on Christmas vacation ten days, probably would be put through a scrimmage session Wednesday.

Meagher and thirty-six members of the squad will entrain for Miami Wednesday in time for two workouts before the game.

SANTA CLARA LEAVES

Santa Clara, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Thirty-six Santa Clara university football players, accompanied by 250 fans, left tonight for New Orleans where they meet Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day.

Improvement was reported in the condition of Everett Fisher, full back, and Bryce Brown, end. Fisher suffered a leg injury in scrimmage. Brown has a cracked rib.

"In all probability both Brown and Fisher will see some action," Shaw said.

SPARTANS REACH MIAMI

A throng of fans and officials greeted the squad, which came from Gainesville, Fla., where it practiced four days. Auburn is due Thursday.

Forty-one persons were in the party. Coach Charley Bachman said Carl Nelson and Frank Gaines, ends, suffered injuries during practice, but all others were in good shape. Nelson had a knee in a cast and Gaines' hand was hurt. Both are expected to be ready Saturday.

URGE EXCHANGE OF RELIEF DATA TO AVERT FRAUD

Agencies Protest Social Security Secrecy.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Relief authorities have warned the administrators of the state unemployment insurance fund that unless the secrecy that has guarded all social security records from scrutiny by other governmental departments is broken, it will be possible for jobless persons to defraud the public treasury by receiving relief and unemployment insurance payments simultaneously.

To forestall wholesale duplication, relief officials are urging the division of placement and unemployment insurance of the state labor department to set up a system for the regular interchange of information on persons receiving unemployment compensation.

About 6 million weekly checks will be distributed next year to about 930,000 qualified applicants for unemployment insurance benefits in this state. These checks will range from $7 to $15 each.

Points to Difficulties.

With payment of these benefits under the state unemployment insurance law about to begin, state and local relief executives make no secret of their belief that inability to obtain a list of those on the job insurance rolls will produce a condition in which the state will be distributing millions of dollars in insurance without any substantial cut in its outlay for relief.

Officers of the state labor department, who heretofore have shielded their files from any outside inquiry, are ready to concede the merit of this argument and to coöperate with the relief authorities. However, they have expressed serious doubt that information on insurance payments can be given to local relief bureaus and public welfare departments without an amendment to the present law.

State Experts Differ.

The state's legal experts do not share the opinion that a change in the law is necessary, it was learned tonight. While no formal request for a ruling has been addressed to Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr., it was understood that, if such a request were made, the attorney general's position would be that there was nothing in the present act to prevent the industrial commissioner from supplying data to any governmental agency that had a legitimate reason for knowing who was receiving compensation from the division of placement and unemployment insurance.

The view of the legal authorities is that discretionary power to make information available is vested in the industrial commissioner by the very section of the act which forbids the indiscriminate disclosure of data gathered by the division.

Security Board Strict.

While all state officials, including Governor Lehman, are agreed on the necessity for effecting some exchange of data between the social welfare and unemployment insurance arms of the state government, possible objections are anticipated from the social security board, which has taken a strict view of the confidential nature of all information in its own files.

Because it supplies funds for administrative expenditures under the state job insurance program, the federal board is consulted on most matters of policy here.

GOLD COINS 600 YEARS OLD FOUND BURIED IN WALL

[Copyright, 1937: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Gold coins estimated to be worth $34,000 and nearly 600 years old have been found by masons during the demolition of an old house in Calais.

The coins are of the reign of Philippe the Bold, struck after April 15, 1339. As the British took possession of Calais some years later [in 1247] it is probable that some citizen of Calais hid his wealth in a box in the wall of his house and died without revealing the secret burial place.

Part of the treasure trove goes to the state and part will be sold to coin collectors.

SOVIETS APPOINT NEW MINISTER TO NORWAY; PREDECESSOR MISSING

MOSCOW, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The appointment of V. A. Nikonoff as Soviet minister in Norway was announced today. He succeeds Ignati Yakoubovitch, who was not mentioned in the announcement and was believed involved in the current "purge" of the Russian diplomatic service.

Nikonoff is without previous diplomatic experience. It was noted that several of Moscow's recent diplomatic appointments were of men without foreign service background, such as the new ministers to Latvia and Estonia, respectively I. S. Zotoff, a teacher of political economy, and Kuzma Nikitin, a teacher's college professor. I. Luganetz-Orelsky, recently named ambassador to China, replacing D. V. Bogomoloff, also was unknown in diplomatic circles before that appointment.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

This is the second of a series of articles explaining how the individual farmer is affected by the new farm bills designed to control crop production.

The Market Quota

December 26, 1937.

The market quota, when invoked, is the only compulsory feature of the farm legislation recently passed by the senate and house. Under the quota provisions, farmers would be told how much corn they can sell or feed and how much they must seal in cribs or elevators to be held until released by the secretary of agriculture. The bills passed by the two branches of congress differ in some respects. These differences will be ironed out in committee at the next session.

NEWS OF FINANCIAL AND GRAIN MARKETS

SANTA SMILES IN WALL STREET, HEART IS HEAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The lilting notes of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" echoed through the canyons of Wall street last week as brokers and their employés imparted a surface appearance of festivity and merriment to the street. But notwithstanding the gayety, the Yuletide season was one of the gloomiest in the financial district in many years.

Stocks moved in a narrow range in the next to the last week of the year, finishing the five days of trading at an irregularly higher level. But volume was restricted and the bonuses to employés were practically non-existent. In addition quite a few persons stand to lose their jobs with the beginning of the new year as a result of the mergers and shifts taking place among stock firms.

Usual Holiday Antics.

On the floor of the exchange on Friday the traders went through their usual holiday didoes, but back of it all was the realization that few houses can show a profit for the year, which witnessed the halt of the long period of rising stock prices and the setting in of the Roosevelt "depression."

However, the market struggled bravely to reflect the holiday spirit and make the best of a poor situation. Many brokers went home for the holidays in a brighter frame of mind as stocks at least held their own and advanced a bit in some divisions.

The fog of pessimism still hangs over the street, but some quarters assert that it is thinning. Whereas a week ago Wall street people could see little chance of improvement, many think now that at least a few weeks of improvement are possible. Wall street is convinced that there can be no forward movement until business can be confident it will be unshackled from onerous and restrictive legislation.

Defeats to Roosevelt.

Although the special session of congress adjourned without any accomplishment, financial circles were cheered by the rousing defeat given the Roosevelt-favored wages and hour bill and also by the fact that the dictatorial farm bill was left unpassed. Not a single one of the five measures on the President's "must" program was enacted.

Business statistics on the other hand made for gloomy reading. Carloadings declined, both from the preceding week and the comparable week of last year; steel operations declined, though this development was offset somewhat by reports that inventories are thinning out in all lines and replacements may give a filip to business this winter and spring.

Another sour note was hit by the estimate that 2,000,000 persons have joined the unemployed ranks since the summer and another million, held due partly to seasonal considerations, is expected to swell the total next month.

Add to this the fact that data for next week points to its being the low point for the decline, with many plants planning to remain closed until Jan. 3, and it can readily be seen why financial circles are not turning handsprings.

WORLD'S WHEAT TRADE FREE OF PRICE FIXING

Nations Find Plans Are Futile.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The world wheat market will be comparatively free in the next twelve months of the artificial influences which have been injected into the situation in recent years by governmental attempts to regulate prices, according to present prospects.

Over the last decade wheat has been the subject of various experiments in price regulation. The little success that these schemes have had is some guarantee that less interference will be attempted in the next year.

The United States, however, is not through with production control and attempted price regulation, but it appears that its program will have little influence on the wheat market this year. A winter wheat crop, the second largest on record, has been seeded and is not likely to be affected by any production control scheme.

May Curtail Spring Wheat.

The spring crop, which accounts for a smaller portion of the total national production, may be curtailed to some extent.

Canada is emerging from a period of experiment with price control that seems to have convinced government leaders that no country can tell the world at what price wheat should sell. Argentina has avoided production control schemes, confining its efforts to helping its producers by manipulation of the value of its currency in foreign exchange.

ORDER.

(IN THE MATTER OF AN INVESTIGATION AND HEARING TO DETERMINE THE NATURE AND EXTENT OF INTRASTATE COMMERCE IN BITUMINOUS COAL IN THE STATE OF ILLINOIS AND THE EFFECT OF SUCH COMMERCE ON INTERSTATE COMMERCE IN SUCH COAL.)

Docket No. 50-PD.

It appearing, that by orders No. 2 and No. 36, the commission, upon its own motion entered into and conducted an investigation under the provisions of section 4-A of the bituminous coal act of 1937, for the purpose of determining the nature and extent of transactions in interstate commerce in bituminous coal in the State of Illinois and the affect of such transactions upon interstate commerce in such coal; and

It further appearing, that reasonable public notice of a hearing was provided and that all said hearing interested parties were afforded an opportunity to be heard; that the presiding examiner duly designated by the commission having filed his report and recommendations and the commission having given due consideration to said report and recommendations and to the record of the evidence in this proceeding; and the commission having on the 21st day of December, 1937, adopted the examiner's report and recommendations as its own which said report is hereby referred to and made a part hereof;

Now, therefore, it is by order declared:

That substantially all transactions in bituminous coal in the intrastate commerce in the state of Illinois directly affect interstate commerce in such coal; and

That there will be an undue or unreasonable advantage, preference or prejudice between localities in Illinois in such intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate commerce in bituminous coal on the other hand, and an undue, unreasonable or unjust discrimination against interstate commerce in such coal if such transactions in intrastate commerce or any substantial part thereof are not regulated and subjected to the provisions of section 4 of the bituminous coal act of 1937.

1. That on and after the 3rd day of January, 1938, all bituminous coal sold, delivered or offered for sale in transactions in intrastate commerce in such coal in all localities within the state of Illinois shall be subject to the provisions of section 4 of the bituminous coal act of 1937, to the bituminous coal code as promulgated by the commission and made effective on the 21st day of June, 1937, and to all relevant orders of the commission in effect on the date of this order, as well as all further orders which may thereafter be issued by the commission under section 4 of said act, so as to apply to such intrastate commerce in coal within the state of Illinois.

2. That any producer of bituminous coal in intrastate commerce within the state of Illinois, who may believe that his or its particular transactions in intrastate commerce in bituminous coal should be exempted from this order and/or from the provisions of section 4 and 4-A of said bituminous coal act of 1937, may file application at any time hereafter for exemption pursuant to the second paragraph of section 4-A of said act, and be entitled to a hearing and appropriate orders thereon.

3. That the secretary of the commission shall give notice to each known producer of bituminous coal within the state of Illinois, who is not upon the date of this order a member of the bituminous coal code, by mailing, within five (5) days from this date, a copy of this order, together with three (3) copies of the form of code acceptance and rules prescribed by the commission for filing acceptances, and a copy of the bituminous coal code as promulgated under date of June 21, 1937.

The secretary shall cause a copy of this order to be published in the federal register and shall also publish a copy thereof in a newspaper of general circulation in each county within the state of Illinois known to produce bituminous coal, publication thereof to be made three (3) times within fourteen (14) days from the date of this order.

By order of the commission.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE DISTRICT OF DELAWARE

TO ALL CREDITORS AND STOCKHOLDERS OF STANDARD GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that, pursuant to an order of the District Court of the United States for the District of Delaware, dated December 1, 1937, a hearing will be held before the said Court, in the courtroom in the United States Courthouse, Eleventh and Market Streets, Wilmington, Delaware, on the tenth day of February, A. D. 1938, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon, for the proposal and consideration of the Plan of Reorganization of November 1, 1937, of the above named Debtor, being SCHEDULE "B" attached to a certain petition of the Debtor filed in said Court on November 24, 1937, and for the consideration of any amendments or modifications of said Plan of Reorganization of November 1, 1937, of any other plan of Reorganization similarly proposed, of the confirmation of the said Plan of Reorganization of November 1, 1937, if it shall appear that the said Plan of Reorganization of November 1, 1937, shall have been accepted in writing, as required by the provisions of Subdivision (e) Clause 1, of Section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act, as amended, and of the division of creditors and stockholders into classes, according to their respective claims and interests. At said hearing the Court may be called upon to decide whether the interests of any creditors or stockholders of the Debtor are materially and adversely affected by the said Plan of Reorganization of November 1, 1937, or by any amendments or modifications thereof that may be then proposed, or by any other Plan of Reorganization of the Debtor that may be then proposed. At said hearing any party in interest may appear and be heard.

Registered holders of Certificates of Deposit evidencing the deposit of the Twenty Year Six-Per Cent Gold Notes of the Debtor, due October 1, 1955, or of the Six-Per-Cent Convertible Gold Notes of the Debtor, due October 1, 1935, under a certain "Plan and Extension and Deposit Agreement" of the Debtor, dated June 15, 1935, are hereby notified that, pursuant to said order of said Court of December 1, 1937, at any time prior to January 27, 1938, any such registered holder or holders may withdraw his, her, its or their acceptance of the said "Plan and Extension and Deposit Agreement" of the Debtor, and any and all such notes so deposited thereunder, by serving written notice of his, her, its, or their intention so to do upon the depositary which shall have issued such Certificate or Certificates of Deposit, and by surrendering to the said depositary such Certificate or Certificates, duly endorsed. Such registered holders are further notified that, pursuant to said order of said Court of December 1, 1937, any such registered holder who shall not prior to January 27, 1938, have so elected to withdraw such acceptance previously given to the said "Plan and Extension and Deposit Agreement" of the Debtor shall be deemed to have accented the said Plan of Reorganization of November 1, 1937, of the Debtor.

Any such transferee or assignee or successor in interest may revoke such acceptance by filing with the Debtor a verified notice of revocation in form approved by counsel for the Debtor, and by either (a) presenting the common stock certificate evidencing such shares to the Debtor in form sufficient to prove the ownership of the holder thereof, or (b) by transferring such shares of common stock into the name of such transferee or assignee or successor in interest. Such ownership of such transferee, assignee or successor in interest shall be deemed sufficiently proved (a) by a transferee of record by the production of the stock certificate representing such shares registered in the name of such transferee, or (b) by an assignee by the production of the stock certificate representing such shares duly endorsed in blank or to such assignee, or accompanied by an appropriate instrument of assignment and transfer of such shares in blank or to such assignee, with signatures guaranteed in every case.

National Enameling and Stamping.

Investor's Guide: Please give me information on National Enameling and Stamping company.—J. L. S.

Answer: This leading manufacturer of kitchen and household utensils has a complete line of enameled, tin and galvanized ware. The company also makes metal packages and containers, kerosene room heaters, kerosene oil cook stoves, electric cooking appliances, steel barrels, stove pipes and elbows, retinned and nickel hotel ware, and a complete line of monel metal hospital utensils.

Manufacturing properties are located at Long Island City, Baltimore, Milwaukee, New Orleans and Granite City, Ill. The steel producing branch of the business was segregated in 1927 into a separate company, Granite City Steel company.

Sales dropped from $12,548,000 in 1929 to less than half that amount in 1932. After net income of $334,000 in 1929 there followed three years of losses, the largest being $764,000 in 1931. The recovery record follows:

	Sales.	Net income.	Income per shr.
1936	$10,673,000	$343,000	$2.09
1935	9,942,000	313,000	2.73
1934	8,766,000	373,000	3.25
1933	7,171,000	274,000	2.30

In the first half of 1937 sales were $5,408,000 and net income was $144,000, or $1.25 a share, compared with sales of $4,725,000 and net of $81,000, or 70 cents a share, in the first half of 1936.

Capitalization consists solely of 114,775 shares of no par value common stock. After omission for three years, dividends were resumed in 1934 when $1.50 was paid. Payments of 50 cents quarterly have been made for the last three years.

Current assets were $4,271,000 and current liabilities were $519,000 on June 30, 1937.

Great Northern Railway.

Investors' Guide: Will you please let me know when the Great Northern railway resumed payment of dividends on the preferred stock this year?—H. B. H.

Answer: Dividends were resumed on the $6 noncumulative no par preferred stock with the payment of $2 a share on Dec. 20, 1937. This was the first dividend since that of $1 a share paid Feb. 1, 1932.

Steel Output Slips Further in Last Week

Domestic steel production declined 4 points to 23 per cent of ingot capacity last week due to light buying and plant shutdowns for the Christmas holiday, the magazine Steel estimated yesterday. Production in the Chicago area eased half a point to 23.5 per cent.

In the Pittsburgh district production receded 5 points to 15 per cent and Eastern Pennsylvania lost 4 points to 25 per cent. In Ohio, Youngstown slumped 12 points to 18 per cent, Cincinnati 18 to 36 per cent, and Cleveland 12 points to 24 per cent.

Losses in Other Areas.

Recessions reported in other areas included 5 points to 19 per cent at Wheeling W. Va.; 2 points to 14 per cent at Buffalo, N. Y., and 1 point to 15 per cent at St. Louis, Mo. Detroit, Mich., at 52 per cent, and Birmingham, Ala., at 45 per cent, were unchanged.

Several indications of improvement early in 1938 have appeared in recent weeks, according to the magazine. Steel scrap prices have firmed, it said, and inquiries for supplies have come from a number of industries.

"The industry for weeks has had its eyes fixed on the opening of the new year as a time for some expansion," the survey said. However, the improvement is expected to be conservative for the early weeks of 1938.

Other Projects Developing.

"Meanwhile, a number of projects involving large tonnages of steel, delivery of which will be spread over several months, are developing. These include steel rails for track maintenance, a considerable tonnage for battleships, tankers and cargo vessels, and some large structural projects. These requirements will give mills considerable backlog. It is believed automotive production, while perhaps not equaling that of 1937, will require a large tonnage of steel."

The magazine also said that railroad buying, always an important element in the steel market, seems to be pivoting on the possibility of an increase in freight rates early in the year.

Making of Rubber Products.

Following the early establishment of rubber factories in New England, and soon after in New Jersey, a movement to the middle west began about 1870, when Dr. B. F. Goodrich and his associates began business in Akron, O. This location proved convenient when automobile makers, demanding rubber tires, centered operations around the Detroit area. Recently there has been some tendency toward decentralization, with new rubber factories in Los Angeles and in the south.

The first step in the processing of crude rubber is washing and drying the raw sheets, after which they are mixed with chemical compounds according to batch recipes varying with the finished product to be made. From this point the processing differs according to the product. If a sheet of solid rubber is wanted the compound is passed through steel rolls. If tubing is required a tubing machine is used.

After shaping of the product it is vulcanized and usually put through a finishing process. Finishing may consist merely of final trimming, but often includes some form of exterior surfacing for greater attractiveness.

Tomorrow: Future of Rubber.

HOLIDAY TRADE FINISHES WITH LARGE UPTURN

The Christmas buying season in Chicago closed with a sharp upturn in sales volumes which partly offset the slump attributed to adverse weather in preceding weeks, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. The association said, however, that sales totals this year were probably slightly below last year.

Chicago wholesalers reported a marked interest in merchandise for late winter and early spring trade. Holiday travel on the railroads was near 1936 levels and employment in the industrial districts of the city was about unchanged.

RULES FOR TAX EXEMPT TRUST FUNDS GIVEN

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The federal reserve board announced today regulations under which banks in states which permit common trust funds can get federal tax exemption for the funds.

A common trust fund was defined as one maintained by a national bank exclusively for the collective investment of money contributed by the bank in its capacity as trustee, executor, administrator, or guardian.

Two types of such funds were sanctioned. First, odd, left over amounts under $1,200 in any one trust might be pooled with similar funds from other trusts. Second, investment up to $25,000, or 10 per cent [whichever is less], from any one trust in a common trust containing similar amounts from other trusts.

To prevent the common funds from becoming holding companies, the board said no fund could be used to buy more than 5 per cent of any one class of securities of one company. Also banks were forbidden to put more than 10 per cent of any trust into any single security except government issues. States permitting common trust funds include New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota, Delaware, and Vermont.

Rolling Mill Spends $254 Per Worker on Its Plant

Middletown, O., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Expenditures by the American Rolling Mill company for plant expansion and improvement since 1929 have been at the rate of more than $254 a year for each employé, Charles R. Hook, president, said today. "In carrying out a $5,000,000 program of improvements and expansion this year, we figured that for 1937 this is equivalent to nearly $381 per employé, including all on the pay roll," he said.

Home Loan Bank Members Rise to New 5 Year Peak

During 1937 sixteen additional savings and loan associations joined the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago, four of them in communities in which the bank had no previous member institution, A. R. Gardner, president, announced yesterday.

SANTA FE RAIL EARNINGS DROP IN NOVEMBER

November net operating income of the Santa Fe railroad declined to $1,152,885 from $2,697,339 in the corresponding 1936 month and $2,162,837 in November, 1935, the company reported yesterday.

Gross revenues for November were $14,008,011, against $14,566,368 in the like month a year ago, a decline of 3.83 per cent. In November, 1335, the road had gross revenues of $12,720,594. November operating expenses were $11,584,004, an increase of $968,033, or 9.12 per cent over operating expenses in the like month last year.

The Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad [Soo Line] reported loss of $548,307 in November, against loss of $439,636 in November, 1936. Loss for the eleven months ended Nov. 30 was $4,898,140, against $5,052,784 in the corresponding 1936 period.

TEXAS POWER OUTPUT HOLDS GAIN OVER 1936

Austin, Tex., Dec. 26.—[Special]—Electric power consumption in Texas during November maintained a wide gain over the corresponding month last year, and the decline from October was no larger than the average seasonal decline, the University of Texas bureau of business research reported today.

Sixteen major electric power companies with total production during November of 200,806,000 kilowatt hours show an increase of 14.9 per cent over November last year and a decline from October of 7.6 per cent.

FREIGHT CARRIED BY TRUCK DROPS IN NOVEMBER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The volume of freight moved by truck in November was 9.72 per cent under the volume hauled in the corresponding month last year and 16.94 per cent below the October tonnage of this year, according to the monthly statistics made public here today by the American Trucking Association, Inc.

Reports were received from 135 motor carriers in 31 states showing an aggregate volume of 380,723 tons in November, against 458,371 tons in October and 421,688 tons in November, 1936.

Seasonal declines, labor unrest, and the drop in business activity were assigned as the reasons for the decrease in the freight volume. It was pointed out that while these figures were considered representative of a cross section of the industry, the total volume reported should not be taken as indicating that total volume moved by truck since many motor carriers did not report.

INVENTORY DROP MAY AID BUYING IN CHICAGO AREA

A survey of business in the Chicago federal reserve district indicates that inventories have been depleted to a level where replacement buying may be necessary in the next few months, H. P. Preston, first vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, said yesterday.

"Evidence of a reduction of accumulated inventories was noted in both wholesale and retail phases," Preston said.

Both retail and wholesale trade in November recorded declines compared with the preceding month, the report continued. Wholesale trade, it added, held above the level of November, 1936, but retail trade fell below the 1936 volume.

Building construction in November, Preston added, fell below the preceding month. With steel production and automobile production down, pay rolls and employment declined sharply from October to November.

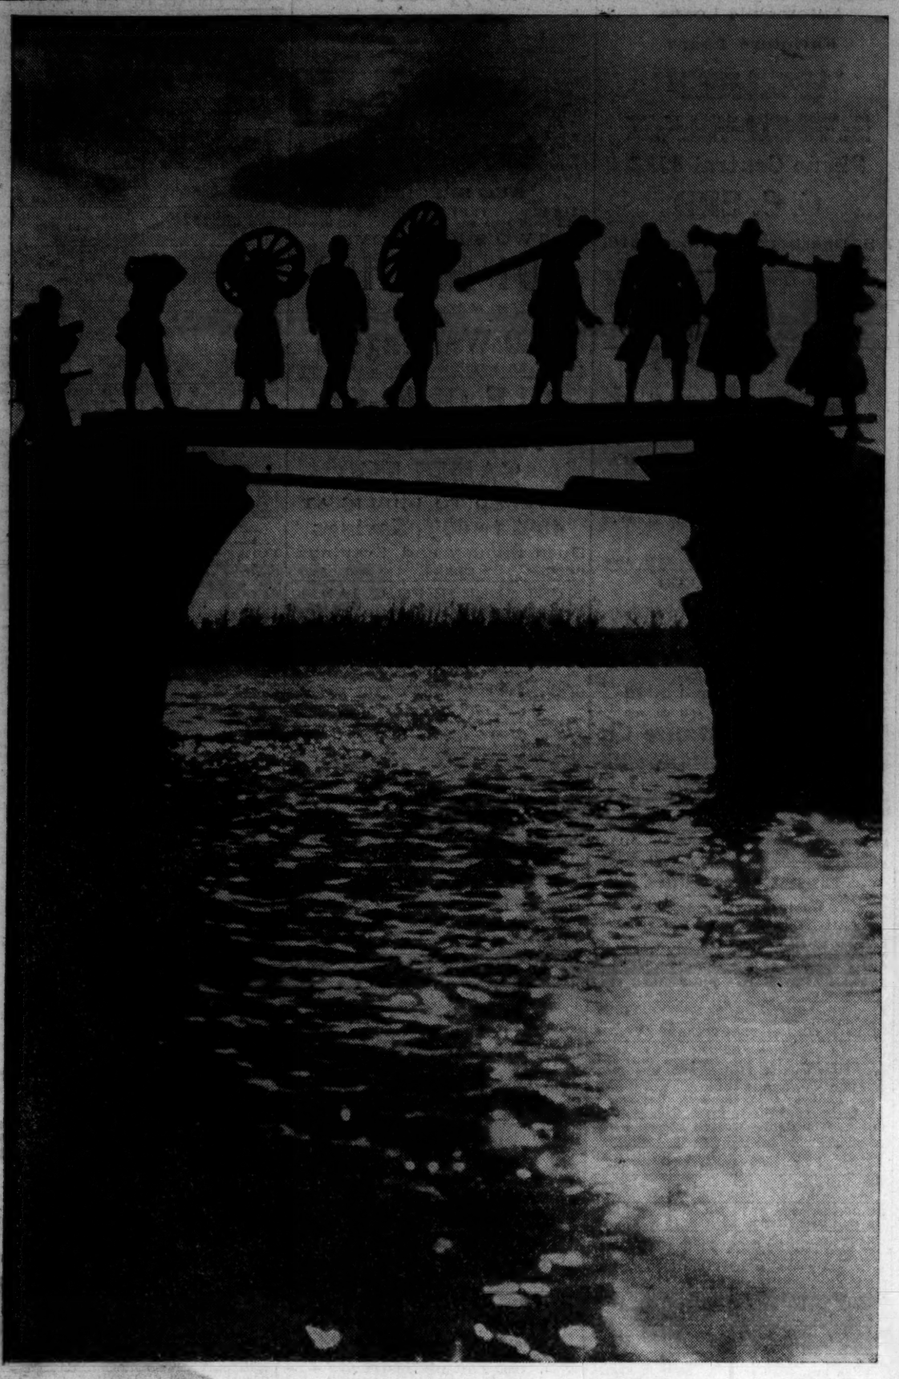
Japanese Troops Capture Tsinan, Capital of Shantung Province—Sunshine Lures Chicagoans Out of Homes



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[Acme Photo.]

FINE DAY INVITES A STROLLER INTO CHICAGO PARK—Rita Mackewiz, 3½ years old, out in Jackson park yesterday giving her new Christmas doll an airing in its equally new buggy. Many other Chicagoans followed her example and enjoyed an outing in the sunshine. The forecast for today is cloudy and warmer, with showers expected to follow.

ACTRESS STRICKEN ON TRAIN—Miss Flora Campbell, New York actress, who was en route to Toledo for the wedding of her sister when she was stricken with appendicitis. She was taken to a Cleveland hospital.
